Gen. Marshall Takes Office As Defense Head

Sworn In As Defense Secretary In Quiet Morning Ceremony

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(INS)—Gen. George C. Marshall appeared at the Pentagon shortly before 10 a.m. (EDT) today and immediately was sworn in as the new secretary of defense.

The only other person present was retiring Deputy Defense Secretary Stephen T. Early. No announcement of the ceremony was made until after it had been completed.

A spokesman then told reporters that the ceremony had been held privately "in accordance with General Marshall's wish."

The spokesman said that Marshall immediately summoned the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and went into a conference on military matters.

He said that the new secretary will have no further anouncement of his plans today.

Given Approval

The man who has twice within five years been called from the seclusion of retirement to serve his country in a crisis, was heartened by the overwhelming endorsement of 57 to 11 by which the Senate confirmed his appointment late Wednesday.

Senators said that as soon as Marshall has had time to get caught up with the numerous issues involved in global defense against Communism, he will be called for a closed-hearing on the world situation.

Senate Armed Services Chairman Tydings (D) D., who piloted Marshall's nomination to approval, said that it will doubtless be impossible for the new defense sec-

Gen. MacArthur Returns To Japan, In Confident Mood

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Sept. 21.—General Douglas MacArthur flew back to Tokyo headquarters from the Seoul-Inchon front this evening with brimming confidence for the success of the allied amphibious stroke.

The United Nations supreme commander left Kimpo airfield near Seoul as U. S. marines were fighting the bitterest battle of the amphibious offensive on the edge of Yongdungpo, a capital suburb.

The Reds were putting up their stiffest resistance to date and MacArthur expressed confidence in the outcome.

In summarizing the entire Inchon operation, MacArthur told International News Service:

Landing Was Tricky

Deny Report Troops Moving From Border

U. S. Army Flatly Denies Troops Moving From Manchuria

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(INS)—U.S. Army headquarters flatly denied today a report that a column of 40 tanks and 200 trucks is moving southward from the Manchurian border toward the Seoul area.

Reports that Communist troops are "collapsing" around the Pusan beachhead also were denied. A spokesman said that the Red resistance is still "serious, strenuous and extremely stubborn."

The spokesman was questioned closely as to whether he meant that there was "no evidence" of an enemy column moving out of Manchuria to join the fighting, or whether he merely meant that no information of this kind had reached Washington.

No Evidence of Movement

He replied that he was authorized by the high command to say that "there is no evidence anywhere of such a movement from Manchuria."

Later, the spokesman amended his statement to say "as far as we known in Washington" there is no such column moving either out of Manchuria or from the Manchurian border, but he left a clear impression that he wished the denial to stand.

He said he had asked in the right quarters about the report and had received an unqualified reply that there was "no evidence" of such a column, and that he personally did not believe that the column existed.

Regarding the fighting farther south around Pusan, he said "We have scored successes, yes, but there is no indication of an enemy rout."

He added that there is no positive information that the enemy is dispatching troops from the south to defend Seoul although the U.S.

Marines Battle Way Into Seoul From Two Sides

Violent Resistance Is Encountered In Southwest Area

By JOHN RICH

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Sept. 21—Tank-led U.S. Marines entered Seoul from the northwest and pushed toward the center of the Korean capital today while other Leathernecks broke into the city's southwest outskirts against violent Red resistance.

Allied planes blasted enemy defenses in the heart of Seoul in preparation for a final ground assault to liberate the metropolis before it can be reached by Communist reinforcements approaching from the north and south.

American troops moving east along the lower wing of a three-pronged drive from Inchon slashed the main highway leading from Suwon into Seoul from the south.

Heavy Battle Raging

But one of the heaviest battles of the Korean war was raging in Seoul's industrial southwest fringes below the Han river as Gen. Douglas MacArthur took off late Thursday from Kimpo airport, northwest of the capital, to return to Tokyo.

An American marine column, led by Col. Lewis ("Chesty") Pullers, was locked in fierce fighting with North Korean troops after the leathernecks had plunged through the factory suburb of Yongdungpo.

The marines were driving to surround an airfield adjoining the Han's southwest bank opposite Seoul proper when they ran into the most intensive Red mortar and automatic weapons fire of the war.

Fifteen American tanks were across the Han ready to meet North Korean armor in a slugging match within the city.

Gen. MacArthur Confident

Gen MacArthur, landing at Tokyo's Haneda airport Thursday evening, voiced a confident belief that the enemy resistance on Seoul's southwest edges will be overcome. The supreme commander personally inspected the Han river sector shortly before flying back to Japan.

Col. Puller's marine force encountered the furious Red opposition just beyond Yongdungpo which is two and a half miles west of Seoul's southwest corner.

The marines had smashed two artillery-supported counter-attacks, demolishing four enemy tanks and killing 300 enemy soldiers, as they captured Yongdungpo late Wednesday and moved on toward three bomb-wrecked bridges leading into Seoul's business district.

Lunge Into City Streets

Behind them, however, another U. S. marine force, commanded by Lt. Col. Ray Murray, lunged into Seoul's outlying northern streets after crossing the Han early Wednesday at a point eight miles northwest of the beleaguered capital.

The armored communist forces opposing the marine advance beyond Yongdungpo were further

By FRANK B. ALLEN

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(INS)—President Truman is expected to shoot a fast veto to capitol hill today on the McCarran Anti-Subversive bill for control of Communism in the United States.

One high administration source said a veto message already has been prepared. It was learned that the White House got an advance copy of the House-Senate conference compromise for study.

Francis Biddle, attorney general in the Roosevelt administration, called on President Truman to veto this bill and appoint a bipar-

Others prominently mentioned for the post as Marshall's deputy include former undersecretary of state Robert A. Lovett, New York financier, and Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr., former budget director and a Truman favorite.

No Decision As Yet On Wage, Price Controls

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(INS)—President Truman declared today that no decision has been reached on whether price and wage controls will be placed on industries producing steel and other basic commodities.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that this matter has been under discussion but that a decision awaits a thorough examination of the whole problem in an effort to avoid mistakes made at the beginning of World War Two.

Preliminary Work

The president declared that, before moving on the cost-of-living question, he is doing a great deal of preliminary work to avert the trial and error experiences of the last war.

He said he does not know yet who will be named administrator of the economic stabilization agency which he ordered set up by an executive order issued on Sept. 9.

The president made it plain that he is in thorough accord with those who are concerned over the rising cost of living.

Sabotage Seen As Worst Threat To Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The greatest threat to industrial Pittsburgh in event of an all-out war would not be atomic but sabotage.

This is the opinion of Ross L. Leffler, Pittsburgh district civil defense co-ordinator, as well as military and industrial protection experts he has consulted.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Post, Society of American Engineers yesterday, Leffler warned:

"We can lose a war if we neglect the home front".

He said it was his belief the Russians would depend more on sabotage than on atomic bombs.

As for the destructive effect of atom bombs, he said he believed that if the Japanese had had warning of an atomic attack in World War II and if properly organized and disciplined for such an attack, their casualties would have been 75 per cent less.

For Once Vishinsky Has Little To Say

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Sept. 2[illegible] (INS)—For once Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky [illegible] hardly anything to say.

The Russian's car was speeding toward the United Nations General Assembly along a highway near Glen Cove when motorcycle Patrolman Timmie O'Neill flagged it over to the curb.

Fifty-five miles an hour, said O'Neill, who wasn't taking no for an answer, was just too fast for New York's congested highways.

He warned that next time Vishinsky's chauffeur would get a summons and proposed that the diplomat resume his journey at a lesser speed.

The proposal was not vetoed.

New Battle Of Retaliation Is On In Berlin

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Two American soldiers seized in the Russian-controlled sector of Berlin were released today despite Soviet intensivication of the "battle of retaliation" between east and west Berlin.

The Soviets stepped up their retaliatory moves in the series of arrests and kidnappings of both east and west German police by shutting off the electric power they formerly supplied from the eastern sector to west Berlin.

Americans became directly involved yesterday when Cpl. Peter J. McSweeney, of Newark, N. J., and Pfc. Kenneth Christman, of Huntington, Ind., were seized while riding in a jeep.

Released Today

The two were released today at Karlshorst to United States liaison officers who brought the men back to American headquarters in Berlin.

The returned soldiers said they had been subjected to "routine interrogation." The west German policeman who was apprehended with them was reported still held for further questioning.

German police in the western sector meanwhile took 11 more

Vishinsky To Oppose Move For U. N. Army

By PIERRE J. HUSS

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky is expected to stage a bitter fight today against United Nations consideration of an American proposal for a standing U. N. army to smash aggression.

The Russian will confront the 14-member "steering committee" meeting with a demand that it drop the United States proposal as irrelevant. The steering committee examines the agenda and allocates the 75 items on its list.

The plenary session of the assembly itself resumes general debate this afternoon at 3 p. m. (EDT).

U. S. officials circulated a memorandum to delegates this morning on a four-point proposal presented by Secretary of tSate Acheson yesterday for averting World War III.

They said the proposal for a U. N. army under assembly control was prompted by Russian obstructionist tactics in the security council and by current delays in getting U. N. troops other than American forces into Korea.

GEN. MacARUTHUR RETURNS TO JAPAN, IN CONFIDENT MOOD

The very thing that made it go was that nobody thought it could go.

"He (the enemy) didn't think so either. Its very difficulties made it successful."

MacArthur's return to Tokyo indicated more than words could express his satisfaction with the progress of the Seoul-Inchon offensive.

He flew back in his new personal plane, a Constellation known as SCAP—Supreme Commander Allied Powers.

During the return flight the UN commander discussed the fighting with Lt. Gen. Lemuel Shepherd commander of fleet marine forces of the Pacific. MacArthur awarded Shepherd a silver star for his part in planning the Inchon operation.

MacArthur left Korea after a sentimental journey to the battleship Missouri during which he rested in the same cabin in which he waited for the beginning of the Japanese surrender ceremony in Tokyo bay September 1, 1945.

It appeared virtually certain that Congress will override a veto. On the final showdown—which came on a conference compromise which includes the "tougher" features of both House and Senate bills—the House vote was 312 to 20, and the Senate vote was 51 to 7.

The Navy spokesman said Kanghwa Island can be regarded as a strong Communist bastion and a threat to the U.S. supply lines, but he added that the forces there have not yet been able to interfere with the landing of more than 4,000 tons per day of Allied supplies at Inchon.

Get Bachache For Being Civilized

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21—(INS)—Backache is what you get for being civilized.

That is what Dr. Paul C. Williams, University of Texas professor and back specialist, told the Third Annual Symposium on Orthopedic Appliances in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Dr. Williams said lumbago, sciatic rheumatism and just "plain aching back" are less known among primitives because they know how to throw their weight around.

"Primitive men carry loads on their backs, and even primitive mothers carry their children that way, thus relieving pressures on his spine," he said.

"Highly civilized people usually lift in front of the body, throwing weight on the structures behind the spine," he added.

It formerly was law in most states that a suspect could not be tried for murder if the victim lived a year and a day.

THE WORKHORSE SHIPS

How many troop transports there were in the great 270-ship armada off Inchon is still a secret. But it is no secret that there must be transports—plenty of them—for an amphibious task of such magnitude. In a day when airplanes carry military personnel of all ranks, it's possible to forget that surface ships are still the main way of getting troops from here to there.

The growing hull of the 48,000-ton super liner United States has just been roughly turned away from round-the-world cruises, dance music and evening gowns. Decorations will be functional. There will be less emphasis on chromium and deeppile carpet—and more on rigging as many bunks as space will allow for.

It is revealed also that the name will not be the United States any more. That's the name originally assigned to the super carrier that was laid down, also at Newport News, but was sidetracked (temporarily at least) by former Secretary of Defense Johnson.

Under the $18,000,000 ship-renovation item in the defense budget a half dozen Victory ships will be put back into service by the Martime Commission. A vast flotalla of these is parked in the Hudson river. It doesn't look as if a large ship-building program needed be undertaken in the foreseeable future.

A NATION OF 'WEEKS'

So far this month the nation has had National Tie Week, National Home Week and Lessons in Truth Week. (Don't tell us you were asleep at the switch!) The last week of the month is three weeks, if you know what we mean—National Dog Week (Sept. 24-30), Religious Education Week (Sept. 24-Oct. 1), National Sweater Week (Sept. 25-30). The month is Child Foot Health Month.

October is down for these weeks: National Hat—Cranberry—Wine—Better Parenthood—Fire Prevention—Save the Horse—Letter Writing—Posture—Bible—Smoke Abatement—United Nations—Honey (the kind from bees)—Business Women's—Pharmacy—Apple—Girl Scout—Flower. To say nothing of Grandmother's Day, Children's Day, Apple Day, World Temperance Sunday.

Had enough? No, scheduled for November and December are these weeks: American Art—4-H Achievement—Education—Cat—Diabetes—Children's Book—Hotel—Prosperity—Radio and Television—Jaycee Memorial—Automatic Merchandising—Golden Rule. Speaking of Golden Rule Week, how about a Week to End All Weeks?

WHAT FUTURE MAY HOLD

Civil defense, now being considered in all parts of the nation, will differ from that of the last war, when a bucket of sand, a stirrup pump and a white helmet were standard equipment.

The atomic bomb has rendered such simple fundamentals unless in the face of a situation which could see whole cities destroyed in an hour's time. The loss of life, tremendous as it would be, would not be comparable to the destruction of those means of existence needed for rebuilding a nation.

American scientists say there would be no point in attacking great centers of population as a means of destroying a nation. Instead power and water supplies would be the first to feel the blows, together with plants making munitions. Without water there would be great loss from fire. Without power there would be no industry.

In the face of these warnings, America continues to centralize both government and industry, unmindful of the evil days which may be ahead.

SWIFTLY-TURNING TIDE

Experiences at Anzio and in other similar operations in World War II have warned Americans not to expect too much too soon from such maneuvers. But the immense size of the landing armade made it clear that the landing at Inchon was a major offensive operation.

For all practical purposes, the war in Korea is nearing a climax. Unless Russia is determined to prolong it, that is. The North Koreans are licked. The South Korean capital of Seoul, is the main gateway through which poured the munitions and supplies for the North Korean troops which ringed the U. S. beachhead at Pusan. The enemy's line of supply now is functioning spasmodically.

The shift from the defensive to the offensive in Korea came sooner than most persons had hoped, and the success of the offensive is amazing.

FIVE STARS FOR BRADLEY

The purpose behind the creation of the rank of five star general, or general of the army, was to reward with commensurate authority a position of extreme responsibility. Under the act of Congress, creating the rank in 1944, four generals—MacArthur, Arnold, Eisenhower and Marshall—have been given the circular five star insignia. The Senate has just passed a measure giving this rank to Gen. Omar N. Bradley, present chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

There was only a minor kickup in the Senate over the the proposal. That was on purely technical grounds. It had nothing to do with Bradley's fitness and reflected nothing on his record. Anyone who has followed the career of this mild-appearing strategist will wonder whether anyone cares to risk the ire of the general's countrymen by opposing the promotion. If Bradley's present arduous duties do not merit it, certainly his triumps in Africa and in Europe do.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Western Powers Face Big Problem

The western powers of the democratic world, now thoroughly in agreement on the essential inclusion of Germany in a tight bulwark against aggression, face a fresh problem that transcends in many respects the hard physical and material aspects of war. It is one of personality and human genius.

The United States, Great Britain and France have agreed that any attack on Berlin or Western Germany will be regarded as aggression against the western powers themselves.

And while the re-creation of German armor will be restricted for the present to building up the West German police force to 30 thousand men and to permitting an increase in steel production, this means that the post-war Reich now becomes an integral part of the western defense system.

Immediate Issue

The immediate issue that poses itself is selection of an over-all western high command leader—a man who must be endowed with a unique assortment of gifts.

He must first, of course, have a bottomless reservoir of military experience, a tremedous sense of responsibility and a dynamic initiative to call upon in event of emergency.

But at the same time, he will have to be able to establish solid contact with the sometimes shy and sometimes aloof English and the militarily proud French.

And coupled with the affability that such contacts will necessarily demand, he must have an unquestioned quality of leadership at all times or the Germans will not follow him.

The sometimes ironic complsions of war and politics have elliminated two men who would have fit into the high command position with the satisfying exactness of a precision micrometer.

One is Gen. George C. Marshall, secretary of defense, who obviously would take the job if President Truman asked him to but certainly cannot now be spared from his present post.

The other, and equally obvious, is Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

With the Western Allies apparently determined to pin their faith and future on the experience, planning ability and ultimate fairness of some outstanding American, the name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is certain to be mentioned again.

Many Brilliant Generals

But there is certainly no poverty of brilliant United States generalship at this stage of world affairs. Generals Omar Nelson Bradley and Hoyt Vandenburg come swiftly to mind, to say nothing of gifted men like Gen. J. Lawton Collins and a host of others in the Pentagon.

Plus—it may be said—a handful of starred and bemedalled brass now covered with mud and dirt on the Han and Naktong rivers in Korea who seem certain to emerge with well-earned places of honor among the nation's military great.

To some extent, at least, the gradual inclusion of German in the western defense system may prove one of the most difficult factors with regard to selection of a commander.

There is no question as to the military genius of the Germans. They may lack a certain degree of initiative among the lower ranks—in the officer corps as well as ordinary troops.

But they must have intense admiration and respect for their commanders and at all times must be given a plan of action crossed to the last "T" and dotted to the final "I."

Plans Must Be Altered

And by the same token, the tactical plans must be altered from the top echelons down when an emergency arises. Otherwise the original orders will be followed to the letter even though they carve open a path to utlimate destruction.

Two types of leadership are admired by the Germans. One has always been the Junkers general privileged to wear the Red-striped trousers of a general staff officer—the badge of graduation from the Prussian war school. The soldiers realized that these men knew just about evertyhing there was to know of war.

The other is the swashbuckling type of which the late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was characteristic. He did not hesitate to show his aversion to Nazi politics and even sometimes to ridicule Adolf Hitler—a quirk which, incidentally, probably cost him his life.

It is certain, of course, that the men who have devoted themselves to establishment of an impregnable west European defense against Soviet aggression have taken due notice of all German peculiarities and preferences. The task simply is to find a man who has all it takes—a tough assignment, to be sure, but not an impossible one.

SHY BOY WITH NO FRIENDS

Suppose you were a boy nine years old, the eldest of three boys, and that you never had playmates of your own age. Might you not be almost as shy and uncomfortable as the lad described by his mother in the following?

"My oldest son is nine and is very self-conscious. It is getting more noticeable as he grows older. When he talks to strangers, children or grownups, he twists himself and makes nervous gestures with his hands and face, which is very embarrassing to his father and me. When we speak to him about it he gets hurt and angry. He always sends his younger brother to ask for him, even to his father who seldom refuses him.

Few Playmates

"We live in a neighborhood where there are not any children his age, so he doesn't know how to play any of the games boys of his age play. I would like him to join the Cubs and Boys' Club but he doesn't want to join."

Here is about the way I wrote this mother: I wonder if you parents ever have imagined how pathetic you would be in this boy's place. You say you are embarrassed by his nervous and shy responses to strangers. You seem to be surprised that he should feel hurt and angry when you speak to him about his suffering, as if he deliberately chooses to suffer so. Apparently you parents scold him for it. Imagine some person stronger than yourself scolding you for heartaches you might have. Have him checked by your physician. He is a very nervous child. My bulletin, "The Nervous Child" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

In your statement, "He always sends his younger brother" so much is implied. It reveals that he is in dread of more shame and rebuke from his parents and that he feels he has a very inferior place in the family group.

You say nothing about school and how he gets along there. The chances are he does better than average at books, but this achievement would hardly help him to win normal playmates. It might be well to require him to join the Cubs and attend regularly; also to attend a camp next summer. But his having to do either could be a severe ordeal for him until he has gained some normal play experience gradually in the meanwhile.

Dad should take a hike or go to a game or show with this lad alone as often as reasonably possible. After several such outings another boy should be invited to go along. Among your acquaintances such a boy might be found.

Perhaps your son could attract a playmate to your home occasionally, with his mother's permission. There you and Dad might provide tools and games and give the necessary help and encouragement. Be not satisfied until you and the father have provided ways for your boy to mingle normally with other boys of his age, one or so at a time at first, more later. But don't look for quick results. Improvement will come very slowly; and it may cost you parents a lot of time and trouble, even some money My bulletins, "The Lonely, Timid Child." and "Your Child and His Playmates" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

Some Color In U. N. Gatherings

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., Sept. 21—(INS)—The universal advent of the blue serge, two-pants suit has taken much of the color out of international gatherings in recent years.

One of the gravest losses so far suffered by the U. N. general assembly occurred on the day that the tall, hawk-faced delegates of Saudi Arabia abandoned their beautiful, flowing robes and turbans of white and gold and showed up at meetings in the conventional double-breasted suits of banker's gray and lawyer's blue that everyone else effects.

Spot of Color

Only the redoubtable delegates from Yemen and the lovely ladies in the Indian and Pakistan delegations still added a spot of color to the annual proceedings. The former, looking like something out of the Old Testament—or is it the "Arabian Nights?"—wear impressive robes of black, gold and white, topped by white and gold turbans. And always a gold and jeweled scimitar at the waist.

The ladies from Pakistan and India are always enchanting in saris that make an American matron in last year's mink coat look and feel like something the cat dragged in.

Mme. Pandit, India's ambassador to the United States and formerly India's chief delegate to the United Nations, attended the opening session of the general assembly this year in a woosh sari of lilac silk. Another Indian beauty came in a yellow sari, embroidered in gold, and still a third one looked devastating in a black, white and gold sari.

But impressive as are the sartorial performances of the gentlemen from Yemen and the ladies from Pakistan and India, they are merely dress rehearsals this year from the unique attire of Sir Lala Lukuna, member of the British delegation and resident and native of the Fiji islands.

Has Been Sensation

Sir Lala has been a sensation ever since the general assembly opened, in a costume that for sheer originality beats 'em all. On his handsome and immaculate person, he achives the impossible by combining the best of Sir Anthony Eden and our own Dorothy Lamour. The union, as any one can see, is perfect.

Below a short, formal black morning coat, worn with gates ajar, collar and boiled shirt, Sir Lala sports a sarong tailored of the kind of black, gray and white striped material of which other gentlemen build their formal morning trousers.

The sarong is a trifle longer than Dorothy's, since it covers Sir Lala's knees, but the formal black coat is a sartorial dead ringer for any that Sir Anthony ever sported. The gates ajar collar and the boiled shirt are further implemented with a natty bow tie in tiny black and white shepherd check that would make a certain HST green with envy.

Is Picturesque

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
(By International News Service)

You know things are disturbed when the "National Sweater Queen" only got one picture in the papers.

She didn't get as much space as Denham and Johnson and they were wearing their traveling togs.

I hear the next counsel for NLRB will be picked on the basis of strong character, fine legal mind and willingness to subordinate a little of each.

The ideal man would be a fellow who knows exactly what Taft-Hartley intended and Truman-Murray won't stand for.

And if they can't find one that brings us back to the National Sweater Queen again . . . At least there are arguments about how she stands.

But the reason it's so difficult to find good men for Washington openings is that there is no job security . . . The first thing the new counsel for NLRB should do is write himself a closed shop contract.

And if he doesn't want to do it . . . Murray and Green will be happy to organize him.

From Me To You

It's not every day that the citizens of this community have an opportunity to see bridges being built . . . and that probably accounts for the large crowd that was and is in attendance at the bridge rising down by the fire station . . . large beams . . . huge beams . . . are being placed on the bridge abutments that have recently been completed on the banks of the Neshannock. Soon traffic will be traveling over this new river crossing.

* * *

But what happens then . . . after crossing the new bridge, where will the bottle neck be . . . not at the public square . . . but right down on South Jefferson street near the central fire station. . . . That is the reason council has adopted the new by-pass route as suggested by the GNCA and approved by the Pennsylvania State Road Engineers . . . work on the by-pass can't be started this year . . . possibly not next year or the year after, although it should . . . but the route is on paper and plans can be made for the future.

* * *

We have been a little lax, we people of New Castle, in supporting plans for the future . . . some of our far-looking citizens have been working years to complete plans that will show the way to the future . . . for example, it took about fifteen years of talk to finally get the right people to support the Taylor Street project . . . which removed much of the heavy truck traffic from the East Washington street hill . . . now we must plan and push the plans for through traffic routes that will help to take care of the ever increasing traffic.

* * *

All these plans will take money . . . and the money comes from the people . . . look over the nation and see what other towns are doing . . . on the west coast they move entire sections just to make way for roads . . . super roads . . . we ask you people of New Castle to back the council . . . to help them make plans and help them make these plans come to life . . . in order that we, the city of New Castle, might keep up with the times . . . no one can get ahead of the fast pace but we can keep up fairly well, but it takes everyone's support.

Washington Calling

Some Deeply Disturbing Signs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Another in the long series of Communist purges occurred recently this time in East Germany It was announced officially that the purge would continue until all traces of "foul liberalism" were rooted out.

It is important to understand what the Communist overlords and high executioners mean by "foul liberalism." They mean, above all, the right of the individual to make a free choice—the choice of an idea, a faith, a job, a place to live. The slightest deviation from the iron slavery of mind and body brings swift and terrible reprisal.

The greatness of this country has been built on freedom of choice. The ancestors of most of us came seeking a free choice. Often this has been abused, and freedom has become license or reckless indifference to the welfare of the nation. Nevertheless, the ideal of a free choice has been the guiding light that burned bright for all the world to see.

choice has been the guiding light guiding light that burned bright for all the world to see.

Disturbing Signs

Now there are deeply disturbing signs that some Americans are willing and even eager to barter this birthright. Out of fear, out of a drive for power, out of greed and hate, or for whatever reason, they want to shut the door on the right of choice and, above all, on the free choice of ideas.

Something of this is in the anti-subversives bill that Congress has adopted. It goes beyond the obvious need to tighten the present inadequate laws to prevent espionage and possible sabotage. It undertakes to legislate what American may or may not think.

The same attempt to prescribe the free choice of ideas is in the zeal of professional patrioteers. Many organizations are attempting to presume to say who shall and who shall not be heard on the radio and on television.

This has been carried down to the point of attempting to blacklist actors and actresses whose roles have nothing to do with politics. In some instances the blacklisting has been done on the flimsiest evidence or on no evidence at all.

Going On For Some Time

It has been going on for some time. A year and a half ago Frederic March and his wife, Florence Eldridge, sued Counterattack for libe. The suit cost them more than $50,000. They finally got a grudging retraction. Since then many others have been subjected to the same treatment, without warning or without any chance to examine the charges or the evidence that may or may not be back of the charges.

If you deprive an individual of his livelihood, you purge him or her. You liquidate the individual.

When Senator Schoeppel of Kansas read a speech prepared for him by others smearing Secretary of the Interior Chapman, he was using the same technique. The motive, however, appears to have been somewhat different. Because he has faithfully carried out public power policies duly approved by Congress, Chapman has angered powerful interests.

Hash Of Old Charges

The speech Schoeppel read was a hash of old and previously repudiated charges cooked over by Frederick Bow, Schoeppel's administrative assistant. Chapman answered back with the vigor and the courage of his profound belief in the rights of the individual.

He had made a choice. The choice was public service, a government career. He has never attempted to be heroic about it because he was doing what he wanted to do.

Yet the audience in the Senate hearing room that heard him reply could not know of all that his coice has meant in both reward and sacrifice. Although few except his family have known it, Chapman received such serious wounds in World War I that he has never been able to get life insurance. When he said that what he could leave his son was not the security of money but the honor of a name, he was speaking the literal truth.

The Schoeppel smear has reacted strongly against those responsible for it. In the privacy of the committee room the Republicans are jokingly accusing the Democrats of having planted it themselves.

I believe that when the American people understand the meaning of the present attempt to circumscribe and suppress freedom of choice, they will always react against it. They may react in violence and anger against those engineering it and that reaction can in itself be harmful. If the American birthright is bartered away, there will be little left to defend and few who will be zealous to defend it.

THE COGITATOR

At bridge I'm listed with the dubs,
But to my credit friends will say it,
When I must play the three of clubs
Unhesitatingly I play it.
I do not sit there gravely blinking
To give the notion I am thinking.

I do not hate to let it go
And high above the table wave it,
Or sit and stare at it as though
By thinking long enough I'd save it.
I never keep my comrades waiting
For what is known as "cogitating."

Slowly his brow the thinker rubs
And time drags on and naught can stop it.
His only play: the three of clubs!
He stares at it, but will not drop it.
Patient to be but few are able
When there's a thinker at the table.

They Say

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y.—Nasrollah Entezam, of Iran, now President of the United Nations Assembly: "Men will hang upon the words we speak here. Yet experience will have taught them mere words are a cruel mockery while men are dying for the sake of peace and the United Nations. They have a right to expect more than words."

NEW YORK—Gen. Lucius D. Clay: "It's not our way of life to depend on government."

WASHINGTON—Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark: "The necessity for expensive or distasteful political activity, the brief tenure of office, and constitutional or statutory limitations on compensation have discouraged many persons of high ability from judicial service."

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A fellow who is about to open a business school in these parts asked me to suggest a slogan for his new enterprise.

'It should have something to do with success," he said. "After all, the purpose of a school such as mine is to help young people to climb to the top of the business ladder and to equip them to get ahead."

"I've got it!" I exclaimed. "I have exactly the right slogan for you."

He was all excited in anticipation and told me that if he used the slogan he would pay me $100 for the idea.

"Never mind the hundred," I replied, "you may have it for nothing."

The slogan I suggested for his "success" school was:

"WHOA"

Needless to say, he did not accept my idea. As a matter of fact, he hardly speaks to me any more.

But, just in case he reads this, I want to let him know why I suggested "WHOA!" as an appropriate slogan and why I think it is a good slogan for all young people who are in such a frightful hurry to become successful.

Recently there was an editorial in the Bridgeport, Conn., Post, which I wish all seekers of success could read.

It spoke of the pleasure this paper finds in reporting the promotions of men and women who have been with local firms for long periods.

"Invariably they have started work under humble circumstances," the editorial said. "They have begun their tasks in the business and industrial worlds with limited assets of money, of pay, of influence."

It went on to tell how most of these people never failed to get the most out of their job, SIMPLY BECAUSE THEY NEVER FAILED TO PUT THE MOST INTO IT.

The editorial emphasized patience, industry, willingness to learn from their superiors and to respect them.

"Taking a deep interest in their specific jobs is the key to the whole promotion scheme," said the article. "Young men and women who want to get ahead in the world should put that thought in the backs of their heads and keep it handy for ready reference."

Unfortunately PATIENCE is no longer an easily negotiable virtue these days.

SPEED has become the watchword. Everything has to be accomplished overnight. PULL has taken the place of PUSH.

GETTING has replaced GIVING. Raises are DEMANDED as blackmail to avoid strikes rather than REQUESTED as rewards of merit.

In former days people got ahead because they were willing to be of service to their firms. Nowadays the most important days of the work week are PAYDAY and PLAYDAY.

One thing these youngsters who are in such a hurry to become vice-presidents, or presidents, overlook is the fact that the best fun in success is in the process of achieving it.

The sooner one becomes president or chairman of the board, the sooner the fun is over. The most succulent steak is repulsive on a full stomach.

WHOA!

And Nothing Can Be Done About It : BY H. T. WEBSTER

Powers Heard By Kiwanians

Compares Democracy With Communist Way

Assistant District Attorney John Powers compared communism and the democratic way of life when he addressed members of the New Castle Kiwanis club in a stirring talk Wednesday noon in The Castleton.

Mr. Powers spoke about the ideals and aims of the colonists who founded this country, and of the great men who wrote the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. These men the communists have endeavored to discredit by smearing their reputations.

Try Infiltration

They have found out that they can infiltrate into our American way of life by confusing issues, and by concentrating on one thing at a time, such as socialized medicine. The Fabian Socialist theory, which its leaders are seeking to force onto the people of the United States, is to divide the nation into different groups. They conceal their dishonesty, just as Delilah did with Samson.

They are concentrating their attack on the ownership of private property, which is the bulwark of our freedom, and are trying to promote deficit financing, he stated.

Cites Figures

Mr. Powers cited figures to show that if every life insurance policy holder in the country cashed in his life insurance, it would not pay for the operation of our government for one year, and if every farmer sold his farm and equipment it would operate the government for far less than a year.

In conclusion, he pleaded for every right-thinking citizen to uphold and preserve our constitution the last remaining bulwark of freedom.

Announcement was made by President Al Mellor that a new Kiwanis club is to be constituted at Bakerstown, Pa., on October 9 and the New Castle club will be responsible for the program. The club is to be known as the Richland Township club.

Feed Children Understanding And Love Diet

EUGENE, Ore.—(INS)—A detention home is a place where children can learn—if nothing else—how to be sociable.

This is the belief of the director of one of the nation's newest temporary homes for juveniles.

Raymond E. Baker, director of the new Lane county detention home, said: "Most delinquent children lack love and understanding. I like to think of understanding as a vitamin diet.

"We need so much understanding and so much love. A person can live on beefsteak or ice cream, but he also needs his spinach".

According to Baker, "Each child is an individual even though in a group situation. I believe, by giving the children a proper routine balanced by a just amount of supervised play, they will fall into a normal line of social behavior".

Baker and his wife, Helen, run the new home as a "man and wife" team. Baker is responsible for the overall administration of the home and for the management of the boys' unit. His wife directs the girls.

Baker and his wife make an objective report on each child. The report is based on a positive approach to each individual child's problem. The reports are analyzed at the University of Oregon department of psychology and returned to the juvenile authorities for further action.

Chinese Reds Have 500,000 Troops In Manchuria

(Special to Central Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—Army Intelligence says the Chinese Communists now have 500,000 troops massed in Manchuria but that it is likely they will enter the Korean war within the next six months.

The reason is that Mao Tze-tung, the Chinese dictator, has informed Moscow that he will not send his troops against the Americans until they have achieved "parity" with U. S. weapons.

That means that the Russians must equip the Chinese divisions with the latest World War II and post-World War II weapons before they will move, and this cannot be done in less than six months. If it can be done at all.

The Chinese fought their own civil war almost entirely with Japanese rifles and artillery. Part of the weapons were accumulated piecemeal before and during the big war, and a great quantity was turned over to the Chinese by the Russians when the Japs surrendered in Manchuria.

The Russians have proved in Korea that they can pour European arms into the Far East in quantity, but Mao's order would be much the biggest they have yet tried to fill. The intelligence report, however, is that Moscow has agreed to Mao's terms.

HIGH COST OF DEFENSE

Those who want to know what happened to the billions of dollars appropriated for defense since V-J day can find part of the answer in rising prices.

Rep. Harry R. Sheppard (D) California, supplied some very convincing figures to the House. Here are a few:

Before World War II, it cost $150 a year to feed a soldier. Now it costs $365. Clothing and equipment for each service man costs $377. Ten years ago they cost $122.

A light tank used to cost $27,000. Now—$225,000. A B-17 bomber, Air Force workhorse in the last war, cost $330,000. The new intercontinental B-36 atom bomb carrier cost about 3.5 million dollars.

A 1,630-ton destroyer cost seven million dollars 11 years ago. Today it cost 40 million dollars to build and equip a 3,650-ton destroyer. Sheppard's figures reflect, of course, not only higher prices but improvements in armament over the last decade.

REALISTIC TRAINING

Behind Gen. Mark Clark's recent orders to all training commanders to reinstate immediately the realistic training techniques used so effectively in World War II is a story of penny-pinching, raw recruits and needless battle casualties.

The realistic training, including the use of live ammunition to acquaint recruits with battle noises and the need for "hugging" the ground under certain circumstances, was dropped under pressure of stiff economy cuts.

Consequently, when the Korean war developed, many troops were sent into battle without ever having heard actual battle noises and without skills acquired only in rigorous combat indoctrination.

The result was just what could be expected — many casualties which could have been averted had the troops had a stiff basic training now once again put into use.

Military officials hope that the lesson learned will not have to be repeated—that the nation will not again cut back on the military budget to such an extent that inadequately trained troops will be forced into combat.

NEW U. S. TANKS

The Defense department has come up with approved plans for a new series of tanks equipped with superior guns, new ammunition and better fire control and sighting equipment.

But whether the tanks will ever reach the Korean fighting front is problematic, because it takes 15 to 18 months to get a new tank into mass production. Defense authorities believe the Korean war will be over within six months.

Emphasis in the new tanks is being placed on firepower, rather than maneuverability. They will be equipped with guns larger than the 90 millimeter on the General Patton and General Pershing tanks.

In addition to being larger, the new guns will weigh less, some of them as much as 30 per cent under similar World War II equipment. Their designers believe they can whip anything the Russians have or can produce in the near future.

To A Pocket-Book Via The Stomach

LONDON—The British government has decided the way to an American tourist's pocket-book is through his stomach.

The government adopted this as official policy by revoking for the duration of the tourist season the 1942 order placing a 70-cent ceiling on meals in restaurants and catering establishments.

To earn more tourist dollars, Food Minister Maurice Webb, wiped out all the petty restrictions limiting meals to three courses only with one main dish and made it possible to cater to the celebrated American stomach.

There will be no more of those bewildering house charges, service charges, cabaret and dancing charges to boost the cost of the 70-cent "austerity" meal.

From now on the customer will pay for what he eats and the sky's the limit.

The restaurateur, for the first time in many years, will now be able to use his culinary skill and use many foods which have been uneconomic while the 70-cent restriction continued.

Mountains of delicacies are now available in Britain's swank restaurants and hotels. It is not unusual in a London hotel to find 125 dishes from which to choose.

Chefs are once again preparing snails in Burgundy, lobster in whisky, wild duck in brandy, foie gras and crepe suzette.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Two rival candidates for president of the local Junior League met at a cocktail party and even a total stranger could have told by the warmth of their embrace and their coos of delight how very, very much they hated each other.

Mrs. Jones swung into heavy action first. "I just love that costume you have on," she exclaimed. "In fact, I love it better every time you wear it."

Mrs. Simpson gritted her teeth, and rebutted by examining the material of Mrs. Jones's frock and saying sweetly, "What an odd fabric, my dear! Why don't you try having it made into a dress?"

Mingling with the throng that poured out of the university stadium after a big game, the out-of-town guest enthused to his host, head of the chemistry department, "What a plant you have here! What a campus! How many students would you say you have?" The chemistry prof answered sourly, "About one in a thousand."

To say that Sir Lala is the sensation of the current assembly is putting it mildly. Photographers were so intrigued by his appearance at the opening session that they overlooked Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Sen. Warren Austin, permanent head of the American delegation to the U. N.

Sir Lala posed smilingly for the cameras and answered all questions with a polite and formal accent. Only, the accent is Oxonian. A graduate of Oxford university, Sir Lala speaks flawless English.

This is my second encounter with Sir Lala, a figure one is not apt to forget in a lifetime. I first met him in London in May, 1937 when he attended the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth by royal invitation.

All in all, Sir Lala is a delightful addition to the United Nations, a charming gentleman and an astute diplomat. And he is a welcome note of color in a sea of blue serge.

EAT A TOMATO FOR A DRINK

They say that a pound of ripe tomatoes contains more water than a pound of milk does.

Tomatoes and milk provide a lot of other things besides water. They give us calories and vitamins and minerals in abundance. They probably have some other good things which the scientists have not discovered yet.

Grandma fed her family milk and tomatoes before the wise boys found the vitamins. She knew a few things herself about feeding youngsters.

She listens to all this scientific information. Then she goes ahead feeding future presidents and bankers and preachers and policemen and bums. She gets away with it pretty well too.

Consumers Urged To Store Up Fuel

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Interior Secretary Chapman urged householders today to stock their winter fuel now because of the war effort.

Chapman said consumer fuel supplies are currently adequate. But he warned that later in the year transportation may be tied up by defense shipments and unable to replenish local supplies of fuel to match heavy demands.

ASK WAGE BOOSTS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Pittsburgh firemen have asked for a 16 per cent wage increase.

They based their demands on rising living costs, higher rates paid by some other cities and the hazardous work of fire fighting.

Pittsburgh city employes have asked for a 15 per cent wage increase and better working conditions.

Top Officials Are Worried

Attitude Of Chinese Reds Is Uncertain

(Special to Central Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—Top officials in Washington—from President Truman on down—are becoming increasingly worried about the possibility that Communist China may enter the Korean war.

The president made it clear in a fireside chat to the nation that he is concerned about the role of Red China. He warned the Chinese to stay out of Korea.

Communist China's consistent heckling of the United States with charges of American violation of Chinese territory is typical of Red propaganda strategy which often precedes an aggressive move.

An attack on United States forces by the China Reds would result in a lengthy war which could commit this country to tremendous manpower and material losses for several years.

Knowing this, the Truman administration is willing to take every step short of full appeasement to keep the China Reds in their own backyard. But we go only so far, and then it will be up to the Communists to take their choice of war or peace.

European Rearmament

Look for a major United States foreign policy pronouncement in which partial rearmament of Germany and further American arms commitments to non-Communist Europe will be announced.

All indications have led to belief that the administration will declare its support of the twin program, especially German rearmament.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson has twice endorsed semi-official statements in favor of allowing West Germany to rebuild its armed might enough to help defend against any Russian break into the Rhineland.

President Truman recently was reported to be against reducing Marshall Plan recovery gains in Europe to permit more war production. The Defense department has been plugging such conversion of peacetime production to weapons, while the European countries have been loath to cut into their economic recovery.

If that's the way the administration is thinking, it means that additional arms for Europe will have to come out of new appropriations.

Friendship

President Truman's letter to Rep. Gordon McDonough, (R) California, in which he said the Marines have a propaganda organization "almost equal to Stalin's" is another example of his tendency to place friendship foremost.

The President has told close associates he regarded McDonough as a friend, that it never occurred to him the Congressman would place his letter in the Congressional Record. He has explained that the letter was personal, that he believed it would be kept confidential.

McDonough, he has told confidantes, is an old artilleryman, just as he is. The Californian served in France during World War I, just as did the President. He felt that with such a bond between them, he could safely write to McDonough in a more vigorous style than he would use publicly.

At least, that is the version of the incident being spread in official quarters.

McDonough, however, had written the President proposing that the Marines be given representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff equal to that accorded the Army, Navy and Air Force. The President, who has been under considerable pressure from other sources to do this, rejected the idea firmly.

Then there is another consideration. The biennial congressional elections are coming up in a couple of months, and the President's views on questions affecting the Marines are important. And McDonough after all is a Republican.

Anthony Villanis Home From Europe

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Villani, 543 East Long avenue, well-known local residents, have returned home after a three-month trip to Europe.

The couple visited Mr. Villani's three sisters in S. Angelo D. Alife, Italy, and other Italian cities including Naples, Pompeii, Rome, Venice, Milan, Turin, Bologna, Florence, Genoa, Pisa and Sicily.

Mr. Villani stated that he found the morale of the Italian people high, generally speaking; that the people are working hard and are profoundly grateful for the help which the United States has given them. They look forward to aid from relatives and friends in the United States and are working hard to re-construct the havoc wrought by the Germans during the past war. "The majority of the people praise the democratic way of life and are not in sympathy with the communists," said Mr Villani.

Mr. and Mrs. Villani were pleased with the food served them during their travels and said that tourists are well-received abroad. They also journeyed to Switzerland, visiting the International Red Cross and the League of Nations buildings in Geneva.

While in France they visited many interesting points, particularly in Paris, and dined at the Eiffel Tower. They brought home with them many souvenirs of their wonderful trip.

Five From State Lost In Plane Crash In West

WILLOW GROVE, Pa., Sept. 21—(INS)—The Navy announced today that five eastern Pennsylvania fliers lost their lives on Tuesday when a combat plane crashed in Puget Sound, 50 miles north of Seattle, Washington.

All five of the Pennsylvania victims were members of the recently reactivated squadron 931 of the Willow Grove Naval Air Station.

The dead included: Lt. Luther W. Schmidt, 34, and radarman 1-C Edgar W. Monell, 29, of Philadelphia; aviation machinist 2-C J. Cook, 23, Woodlyn (Delaware county); aviation machinist 2-C David G. Candler, 29, Hatboro; and Lt. D. S. Red, Harrisburg.

The Naval Air Station at Willow Grove reported all five left there September 5 with about 200 other members of the squadron in a 13-plane airlift that took them to the new stations.

A naval spokesman said they were in the first group of reservists to be reactivated east of the Mississippi.

Make Progress At Sub-Station

Steel Frame Work Is Being Erected

Work which has been in progress over the past ten weeks on the new building being erected on Cedar street, adjacent to the Pennsylvania Power company sub-station, is progressing rapidly and occupancy of the building is expected about December 1.

The structure, when complete, will be the headquarters for the sub-station maintenance crews. The building is adjacent to the systems main sub-station and men will be close by in the event of an emergency.

The building, will not only house the workmen, but will serve a number of purposes, Paul Dingledy of the Pennsylvania Power company reported today. The one-story structure will serve as a shop for repairs for small items such as bushings and other electrical repair work that needs to be done. Several trucks will likewise be housed in the building and will not be left outdoors as was necessary previously in many cases.

At present, steel superstructure for the building is rising upward and soon the brickwalls will be put in place. The work should be completed in about two months if no unforseen difficulty arises to hamper the work.

Council-Manager Form Of Government Sought In State

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(INS)—A campaign for legislation authorizing the council-manager form of government for the commonwealth's 47 third-class cities was opened today by the State Chamber of Commerce.

A bill providing for local option on the issue will be introduced at the 1951 session of the General Assembly, the Chamber announced.

More than 100 third-class city officials, and representatives of civic clubs, state Senate and House committees and local Chambers of Commerce are attending a meeting at Harrisburg sponsored by the State Chamber.

Elected city councilmen enact legislation under the council-manager system, but the administrative duties are handled by a city manager. A council majority has the prerogative of ousting the manager for sufficient cause.

Present state law permits boroughs and townships to employ a manager. Forty-four boroughs and four third-class townships retain a city manager.

Paul Became World Evangelist

HE OBEYED JESUS' CHARGE TO SPREAD THE GOSPEL

Scripture—Acts 16:9-15; 17:22-31; 26; II Corinthians 11:22-12:10

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

Today we conclude our study of the great teachers of the early Christian church. St. Paul was the greatest of them all. He was an educated man and a zealous one. When he was a Pharisee he persecuted the Christians with all the energy of his nature, and when he became a Christian he went "all out", as we say, in his enthusiasm for the faith.

Paul never spared himself in his efforts to spread the gospel of Christ to "all the world," as Jesus had commanded His disciples. Travel in those days meant walking over terribly rough, roads through valleys and over mountains, often in danger of robbers; or sailing in primitive vessels that might easily be wrecked in a sudden squall.

Our story begins in the middle of Paul's life and during his second missionary journey. "The Spirit" had forbidden him to visit certain churches where he planned to spend some time. He arrived in Troas on the Aegean sea, opposite Greece, probably somewhat bewildered about what God intended him to do next.

That night, however, Paul had a vision in which a man came to him begging him to come to Macedonia to help them. Paul realized this as God's message to him.

Next day Paul and his companion journeyed to Europe—a turning point in world history and the widening of Christian influence to the continent. St. Luke, author of the Book of Acts, appears to have been with Paul when they arrived at the city of Philippi, but did not accompany him further.

There apparently was no synagogue at Philippi, so Paul went to the river bank where he knew the Jews would probably gather on the Sabbath to pray. Finding a number of women there, Paul sat down and talked to them.

Among them was a well-to-do woman named Lydia, a seller of rare purple cloth. She was a God-fearing person, and she readily accepted Paul's message and was baptized with all her household. She then invited the disciples to stay at her home while they were in the city.

From Philippi, Paul journeyed to Athens—chief center of learning in those days. The Greeks, like the Jews, considered themselves a superior people, referring to the rest of mankind as barbarians—"Greeks and Barbarians," and considering the barbarians beneath their notice.

Paul saw many statues and altars to different gods and goddesses that were worshipped in this center of culture, but one altar intriguing him more than all others, for on it was inscribed, "To the unknown god."

This man who was entirely unknown in Athens where many famous philosophers and orators had lived, wended his way to Mars' hill—meeting place of the ancient court—where gathered men who discussed everything in the universe.

St. Paul.

(Jesus said) "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation."—Mark 16:15.

His speech to the Athenians is one of the greatest ever uttered. He did not antagonize these citizens, but addressed them as their ancient philosophers had done, "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious," referring probably to their worship of a multitude of gods and goddesses.

"For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, 'To the Unknown God.' Whom therefore, ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you."

Then he told them of God the creator of all the natural world and of all mankind. He warned them of judgments to come and begged them to repent of their sins. He told them of Jesus, of His life and death and His resurrection from the dead. Some men and women were converted and "clave unto him," others said they would hear him again concerning these matters.

Of Paul's trial before King Agrippa who was visiting the procurator, Festus, we have very little space to comment. We can only refer the teacher to the text of the lesson, and say that so powerful was his defense of himself before the two that Festus himself was convinced that Paul had done nothing to make make him worthy of death or imprisonment.

Agrippa himself was so impressed that he said to Paul, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." Agrippa's final verdict was that Paul should be set free if he had not already appealed to Caesar, who alone could give him liberty.

Writing to the Corinthians, Paul again defends himself against certain accusations—made this time by various members of the church. He recorded his heroic efforts to bring his message to Jew and Gentile alike, a record that we should read to appreciate. No one before or since in the missionary field has suffered for the Gospel of Jesus as did this zealous apostle and martyr.

Move By Vishinsky Fails In United Nation's Committee

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., Sept. 21.—(INS)—A demand by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to drop from the U. N. General Assembly agenda the Latin-American proposal for lifting the diplomatic boycott against Spain was defeated today.

The 14-nation steering committee reversed itself after temporarily shelving Vishinski's request and voted him down, by 10 to 2. There were two absentees, Cuba and Iran.

Scrub And Scrub Pots Stay Dirty

CLEVELAND. — (INS)—Many housewives who boast about their spotless kitchens may be surprised to find out that their pots and pans stay dirty even after being scrubbed.

Researchers at the General Electric are using "black light" to detect otherwise invisible food particles on cooking utensils, dinnerware and other kitchen equipment.

The invisible ultraviolet rays show that utensils may be dirty even though under normal lighting they appear to be fairly clean.

The researchers take the pot to be examined and treat it with a non-toxic fluorescent dye. They then rinse the pot in clean water and examine it under "black light."

Food particles absorb the dye and fluoresce when exposed to the invisible radiation.

G. E. technicians point out that, although the equipment used is too elaborate for the home kitchen, the "black light" method is especially applicable to the work of health and sanitation departments.

Of 116 ship building and repair yards in the U. S., 68 are located on inland waterways, rivers or canals.

Thousands Of Germans Die In Red Camps

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The State Department released figures today indicating that 96,000 East Zone Germans have died in Communist concentration camps since the end of the war.

The figures were compiled by an independent German organization known as the fighting group against inhumanity, located in the western zone of Berlin but in close contact with refugees from the east.

The compilation was made by Rainer Hilderbrandt, leader of the group, who charges that at least 185,000 Germans have been seized by the Soviets or the East German police force. He estimates that 37,000 have been deported to the Soviet Union for forced labor.

Acts Of Inhumanity

Th organization fights acts of inhumanity in both east and west zones. However, no charge has been leveled against the west and all propaganda, broadcast through the U. S. radio in Berlin, is directed at the Soviets and East German Communists.

Early in March Hildebrandt listed 13 concentration camps then being used by the Communist to contain political prisoners. These include the infamous Buchenwald camp, where inhumanities were practiced by the Nazis.

The Soviet army, according to the political leader, made the earliest arrests after occupation while local German Communists were given an increasingly freer hand after 1946.

Two Main Sections

He divides the prisoners into two main sections. They are:

1. Former Nazis, war criminals, Nazi criminals and those guilty of crimes against prisoners of war and foreign workers.

2. The intelligentsia, the bourgeoise and members of the Social Democratic party, the East Christian Democratic Union, the Liberal Democratic party and others who could not go along with the communist ideology.

Tortures known only to the communist world were imposed on all those arrested. Ultimately many signed confessions, according to Hildebrandt, which had little to do with the disposition of the cases.

Those sent to the Soviet Union's forced labor camps were put to "the heaviest type of work". Those retained in Germany were confined to complete idleness and subjected to a system of slow starvation.

Expect Crowd Will Attend Tax Hearing

Indications are it may be necessary to display the "S.R.O." sign at 10 a. m., Friday, in council chambers, city hall, to hear the Wage Tax problem discussed by members of council, and possibly by others.

Throughout the day a large number of cards, properly signed, were delivered to Mayor John F. Haven, stating they favor retention of the Wage Tax. Others called upon him personally, and stated their position.

The "Battle of the Wage Tax" resulted from Councilman Albert A. Hoyland's proposal that it be eliminated.

Mayor Haven and Councilman R. I. Davis stated they were in favor of its retention and "walked out" of council's meeting Monday.

After the meeting, His Honor asked interested property-owners to mail him their views, or to state so to him personally, which is being done.

He said that to abandon the Wage tax would force an increase in the tax millage on property and cause them to bear the brunt of paying for the general operation of the city.

Mayor Haven stated today that, no doubt, many may sign cards stating they favor the wage tax. In order to have them in by Friday, they may leave their signed cards at the police station tonight, or early tomorrow morning.

BILL OF RIGHTS

BOSTON—Americans have an inalienable right to "go out for a breath of fresh air," Municipal Judge Jennie L. Barron decided. She acquitted four men of obstructing foot traffic on a sidewalk near their home one hot night.

"Assignment; America"

By INEZ ROBB

(Reg U. S. Pat. Off.)

(Distributed By International News Service)

Have Gone Too Far This Time

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Like so many other Americans who lead quiet, mousy lives, I am an avid reader of the Broadway columns.

They open roseate vistas on a lush world I can never hope to know, in person. Through such columns I am privy to which jockey is now en rapport with what hat-check chick; which broker slugged what doctor over whose wife in what supper club, and which Egyptian king bought a bushel of rubbies for what abdominal dancer at Monte Carlo.

Then occasionally amid these exotic chronicles there is tucked away an unexpected little gem that makes me at least temporarily content with my lot. I have just come across one such item reporting the latest way to reduce, as practiced by Lottsy Gluecose, the crooner.

Lottsy, according to this announcement, takes upon his plate thrice each day the normal or average allotment of vittles.

But Lottsy, the old foxxy, is losing weight like crazy by eating only half the food on his platter and heroically sprinkling the other half with his cigarette ashes.

Quick Method

Anyway, both Lottsy and the columnist guarantee that this is a quick method by which to grow thin.

It is also, in my household, a quick method by which to grow dead. This is just by way of a quiet warning that any one now practicing the Lottsy diet had best accept no invitations to dine at Chez Robb.

Any dude who sprinkles cigarette, pipe or cigar ashes on the roast beef, mashed potatoes or apple pie in my house, after Mattie, the household jewel, or myself has been standing over a hot stove all day, will get reduced all right.

The ill-bred baboon of either sex will be reduced in short order to a pulp with the baseball bat I keep stashed away in the buffet for just such purposes.

Any customers I can't handle, Mattie can. Mattie is a lady needs a little reducing herself to keep to her usual trim 190 pounds. And nothing riles Mattie like a butt in the fresh mushroom soup or — aptly named — a coffin nail stubbed out in her lemon meringue pie.

A few years ago a female guest, with more brass than breeding, elected to put out a lighted fag by dunking it in an Idaho baked potato, which Mattie had gussied up with butter, cream and freshly ground salt and pepper before bringing it to table.

Testified For Mattie

Well, to make a long story short, all the other guests testified in behalf of Mattie.

The judge, himself a gentleman of the old school, was seen to shudder and blanch perceptibly when the final scene at table, with the evil weed poised menacingly over the fluffy potato, oosing sweet butter at every pore, was described in court.

The jury did not even leave the courtroom before returning its verdict of "not guilty", whereupon hizzoner congratulated the twelve good men and true, saying that if ever he had heard a case of justifiable homicide, this was it.

Diets I am used to, but the fat cats have gone too far this time. The better part of my life has been spent listening to the sufferings of men and women on seven, ten and fourteen-day diets, on the lettuce diet ,the hard-boiled egg and tomato diet, the lamb chop and pineapple diet, the steak and steak diet, the black coffee and raw cabbage diet, the banana and skimmed milk diet and more recently the Dupont diet.

But this tobacco diet is one too many. This column can be construed as a simple warning that anyone dining Chez Robb who mistakes his plate for an ash tray will not live to see the coming of the morn. We just don't like ash on our hash, see?

MAIL BY STEAM

BOSTON—The voyage of the steamship Savannah in 1817 from the U. S. to England marked the first time that mail had traveled by steam power instead of sails.

Coast Guard Busy On River Watch

THE DALLES, Ore. — (INS) — The most land-locked Coast Guard station in the West is the three-boat, 11-man unit at The Dalles, some 200 miles up the Columbia river from the Pacific ocean.

The unit keeps a watchful eye on 120 miles of river, but its major duty is building and maintaining 210 visual navigation aids along both sides of the swift-flowing, 150-yard-wide Columbia from The Dalles to Pasco, Washington.

Coast Guard men are likely to turn up any place in the area, from bulldozing snow-closed roads to free storm-stranded residents to searching back areas for wrecked aircraft.

Bulk of aid calls since the station was opened in 1938 by the Lighthouse Service and taken over by the Coast Guard in 1939 have been requests to drag for bodies of river victims.

Unit officer Chief Ralph L. Jenson is preparing to launch a thorough inspection of all small craft operating on the Columbia to check whether they conform to marine inspection regulations. It will be the first such inspection in the area.

Specialist Advises On Home Painting

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Home painting jobs require proper application, timing, a well-prepared surface and a good quality paint.

John C. Campbell, Oregon State college extension housing specialist, believes the proper time to start painting is before wood has begun to rot or nails have started to rust because rotting and rusting will continue after the paint has been applied.

Campbell says not to paint when the thermometer is below 60 degrees. He suggests that painting not be done in direct sunlight or when the temperature is above 90. Temperatures between 60 and 80 degrees are best.

Regardless of the temperature, choose a time when insects are scarce and when dust is not blowing freely.

Preparing the surface requires more time than the actual painting. Dry surfaces are absolutely necessary. Allow a week or more to pass after a hard rain to insure thorough drying.

Surfaces must be clean, free of grease, oil, dust, dirt and soot. Old painted surfaces that are chalky require dusting only.

To insure purchase of a good paint, the specialist advises the buyer to study the formula listed on the can. Most ready-mixed house paints, for example, contain a white lead or white lead and zinc oxide pigment. The pigment may vary from 25 to 65 per cent of the paint's total weight. Addition of gloss, fish oil or mineral oil makes an inferior paint.

Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(INS)—Platform soles, a shoe made that went out with the full skirt, will be coming back this fall in a fresh, '50 version.

The new sole cushions, designers say, will give ladies more padding, but with less conspicuousness, than the old platforms.

Called the "vanishing" platforms, they start as a uniform leather sole at the toe of the shoe, and grow from nothing to almost a half-inch width at the ball of the foot.

The design is scientifically constructed to give better balance to the foot, and better posture to the lady. Which means that platforms will now be comfy as cushions, but not ungainly—as the old abbreviated-stilts models were three years ago.

Accidents Take Lives Of 35,000 Women Girls Yearly In U. S.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 21—About 30,000 American girls and women lose their lives in accidents each year, which is a higher toll than from any other cause of death except the cardiovascular renal diseases or cancer, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. During the childhood and adolescent years, accidents are the greatest single threat to life for females.

Falls rank first among the causes of fatal accidents to females, accounting for 45 per cent of the total number of fatalities. This is due, in large measure, to the high toll of life taken by falls among women at ages 65 and over.

Prone To Falls

Impaired vision and hearing, weakened skeletal muscles and other physical deterioration make the aged prone to falls," the statisticians comment. "Accidents of this kind which ordinarily cause little disability at the younger ages, often result seriously for older people."

Under age 65, motor vehicle accidents outrank by far the other causes of accidental death for females. Among girls at 15 to 19, motor vehicle accidents account for practically two-thirds of the mortality from all accidents, and at ages 20 to 44 the proportion is more than half.

Burns and Scalds

Burns and scalds, the statisticians point out, also claim the lives of many women and girls each year. Among preschool girls such accidents frequently are caused by upsetting or falling into hot liquids, and at the school ages they often are the result of playing with matches or clothing catching fire from an open flame. Beyond childhood the mortality from burns and scalds reflects the special hazards to which housewives are exposed while working around the kitchen or in the laundry.

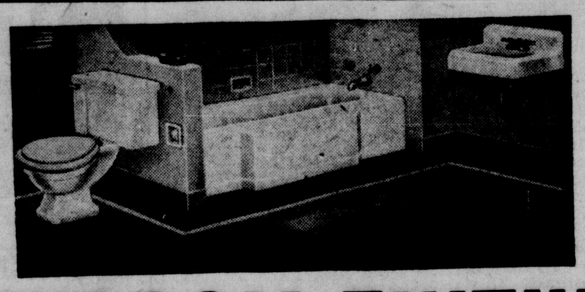

"It is encouraging that some state health departments have taken leadership in home safety campaigns, but much more can be done by official agencies, state and local," the statisticians note. "Architects, builders and engineers should make every effort to build safety into the home. Manufacturers of home appliances and and other equipment can aid by improving further the safety of their products."

GRAIN IMPORTANT

DES MOINES—The more grain included in the cow's ration, the more milk the cow produces.

THAILAND

The last census reported that five-sixths of the workers in Thailand were farmers or fishermen. The paddy farmers raise enough to make the country the world's largest rice exporter. Rubber and tin production is increasing. Other crops include sugar, coconuts, tobacco, pepper and cotton. Among livestock, elephants rank high. They move giant teakwood logs through the dense forests of North Thailand.

Report Soviet Jet-Propelled Warship Trial

BERLIN, Sept. 21. — (INS) — Western intelligence sources reported today the successful trial of a Soviet jet-propelled warship in the Baltic.

These sources indentified the the experimental vessel as the former German cruiser "Luetzow," which has been fitted out with six jet turbines.

The allied informants said the initial attempt was made in the vicinity of Stettin, now one of the chief Russian naval bases in the Baltic sea area.

Top-ranking Soviet officials, including a number of special representatives of the Russian navy ministry, were on hand for the test.

The western sources said no details of the ship's performance were yet available.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20—George Montgomery thanks his lucky stars that he has been "typed" as a two-gun man of the old west.

The star, who is a Montana rancher in his own right, figures that if the studio bosses had cast him as a two-gun gangster of the modern era, his career would have been on the eclipse long ago in movieland.

"Today's gunman is a yellow-bellied coward, a rat or a hopped-up sniveler compared to the western badman of yesterday," says Montgomery.

Notorious Outlaw

He is now emoting in "Waco," in which he plays one of the notorious Sundance Kid's outlaw gang which terrorized Texas in the 1870.s.

"The western badman of those days," explains George, "was a cold-blooded killer and I hold no brief for him. But at least he did not need fences or doorways to hide behind. He would ride into a town single-handed, without the backing of a gang or the power of a tommy-gun, and do his dirty work alone.

"The so-called gunman of today hasn't the courage to do that. He will never face a man on an even basis with his potential victim also armed and ready."

Streak of Good

The western actor says many of the legendary frontier badmen had a streak of good in them, with the result that portrayals of their lives will always be popular on the screen and appeal to young and old.

Montgomery is a badman who later becomes a law enforcement officer in "Waco." Some of the most famous marshals of the west originally were outlaws, such as Wyatt Earp, "Wild Bill" Hickok, Bat Masterson and Bill Longely.

"It all explains," says Montgomery, "why a western badman can become a hero in pictures, but a gangster never can. And it also may explain why western pictures always will be popular—but gangsters themes eventually become tiresome."

CAN SEE SIGHTS

Kathryn Grayson goes to New Orleans Thursday for the premier of her latest picture, "Toast of New Orleans." It will be another milestone in her life.

For the last time she was there the studio thought that she was a little too young to tour the city at night. That was during the war years when she was among a group of stars touring for the war bond drive.

The studio heads gave orders that Kathryn was to remain in her hotel room with Greer Garson's mother, Nina, while the rest of the group saw New Orleans after dark.

Kathryn is a big girl now, married and mother of a child. So the singing actress will see New Orleans for the first time on her second visit.

Colonel Deserts His North Korean Troops, Surrenders

EIGHTH U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 21.—(INS)—A North Korean colonel deserted his troops and surrendered himself to GIs on the front above Taegu today because, he said, "I've studied democracy and consider it the best way of life."

GIs of the First Calvary Division could scarcely believe their eyes when they saw spotlessly clad Col. Lee Hak Ku, chief of staff of the North Korean 13th Division, stride across no-man's land to surrender.

He wore a neat North Korean uniform and Russian-type boots and carried a pistol and a "burp gun," both of which he discarded at a command and advanced with hands upraised.

The colonel holds a senior rank equivalent to an American brigadier general.

He said he armed himself merely for defense against his own men. Lee reported he deserted his hopeless trapped division during the night below Tabu.

Suffer Big Losses

Lee told American intelligence officers his division which had been assigned the "honor" of capturing Taegu by frontal assault had been cut down by casualties from 12,000 to 1,200 men.

He said there were possibly 5,000 Reds trapped in a pocket below Tabu which lies about 13 miles north of Taegu. Remnants of his own division had been augmented by stragglers and by men from the North Korean Third Division, he explained.

Lee said he had heard about the new landings at Inchon but decided against passing this information along to his men.

He reported that the North Koreans in the Tabu area realized only this morning that they were surrounded by American and South Korean forces. They made this discovery, he said, when they were dragging artillery pieces across the mountains toward Tabu and found that American First Calvary tanks had arrived in the area first.

The Americans captured several Red artillery pieces and then moved on, leaving South Korean units to mop up. The Red pocket was showered with pamphlets urging them to surrender.

Flying Saucer Lacks A Motor

ALLIANCE O.,—(INS)—Lewis Stoffer can't wait to see his first flying saucer so he's making one of his own.

Stoffer, a 23-year-old graduate of Mount Union college in Alliance, O., has invented a saucer he thinks will fly once he finds a way to put a motor in it.

He built the saucer of lightweight paper with wooden airflow ribs or deflectors on the top and bottom. The contraption resembles an umbrella about a foot and a half in circumference.

"The curved wooden ribs on the top are slanted so as to push the air up when the saucer revolves," Stoffer explains. "The under ribs are slanted in the opposite direction."

Stoffer says when the saucer turns at a high speed a lifting force will develop because of the air being pushed away from above the saucer with another thrust coming from underneath.

"All I need to do is figure out a way to put an engine in it," he added, "or else it may wind up as a chandelier decoration."

The youthful inventor has nine inventions to his credit including a bobbie pin spreader designed to save wear and tear on women's teeth, a toy jet boat for children and a hamburger pattie press.

Stoffer, naturally enough, plans to study industrial management in graduate school if he can spare some time from his home-made flying saucer.

Department of Agriculture scientists have discovered that the first day out chicks thrive best at 94 to 95 degrees.

Appeal Made To Employ Disabled Vets In Industry

Industries expanding to meet defense contracts were today reminded by the Veterans Administration of a first-rate source of manpower, ready and willing to train for new skills—the nation's disabled veterans.

Survey after survey has disclosed that these men, when properly placed, prove to be at least as good workers as their able-bodied fellow employees.

A federally-sponsored training program is at their disposal: Public law 16, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act. But they need a place to train.

Employers who, because of increased orders, now find themselves in a position to train new workers are urged by V-A to remember America's disabled ex-servicemen.

A call to the nearest V-A field office will produce full details as to how to go about taking on handicapped veterans under public law 16.

The plant digitalis, was so called from the Roman "digitus," meaning finger, since it has finger-shaped petals.

Levine Asks First Degree

Eddie Warden's Fate Is Now With Jury

Eddie Warden's fate is with the jury.

Shortly after two o'clock this afternoon Judge W. Walter Braham completed his charge to the jury which has been trying him for the killing of Robert H. Wylie, Jr., on June 7, 1950. In addition there are three other cases against Warden. One charges an attempt to kill Irma Bennings and two others are for wantonly and wilfully pointing firearms.

Asks First Degree

District Attorney Sherman K. Levine asked the jury to return a verdict of murder in the first degree and guilty on the other three counts.

Attorney Phillip Morris who with Attorney John D. Henderson defended Warden asked the jury to give the defendant's story careful consideration. He did not ask for any specific verdict.

Judge Braham began charging the jury at one o'clock. He pointed out the law in murder charges, reviewed the evidence and then told them to return a verdict they honestly believed to be justice.

Other Cases

In court room number two the case of Owen Ransome went to the jury about two o'clock. Ransome was charged with a serious morals offense and the case has been on since Wednesday.

In the case of robbery and aggravated assault and battery against Lee and James Mason the jury returned a verdict of guilty as indicted.

Three Million Pounds Of Cheese In State Storage

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Nearly 3,000,000 pounds of American cheese were added to Pennsylvania cold storage supplies during August, the state agriculture department reported today.

A seasonal increase is usual at this time of year as a result of peak milk production in May and June, a department spokesman said.

Cheese reserves for winter months advanced during August from 2,144,000 to 5,073,000 pounds.

Reserves of butter and cream in Pennsylvania cold storage houses declined during the month along with shell egg holdings and frozen eggs.

Declines also were recorded for storage stocks of cream and creamery butter. Dressed poultry gained 75,000 pounds.

PAGLIA-BULLANO EXCHANGE OF VOWS

White nylon marquisette was worn by Miss Margaret Paglia as she became the bride of Edward Bullano on Saturday, September 16.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Concordia Paglia, Fountain avenue, Ellwood City, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bullano Sr., South Jefferson street, New Castle.

Vows were exchanged by the couple in the Blessed Virgin Mary church, Ellwood City, at 9:30 a. m., with the Reverends Vincent Galliano, Stanislaus Joswiak, and Vincent Bertoline officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a princess style gown fashioned with a fitted lace bodice, tiny scalloped Peter Pan collar, and full skirt, with lace insertions, ending in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion cascaded from a halo of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums centered with an orchid.

As her sister's maid of honor, Miss Mary Ann Paglia was attired in green taffeta with a jacket of illusion as a pretty accent. She carried yellow baby mums.

James Cople Jr., of New Castle was best man for the occasion.

Breakfast was served at the bride's home, with a dinner held in New Castle. An evening reception was held at the Ecclesian club, New Castle, with the couple departing later for a trip to New York City. They will reside in New Castle upon their return.

The bride is a graduate of the Lincoln high school of Ellwood City and the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing, Pittsburgh. The groom, a New Castle high school graduate, is an army veteran.

Census Figures to Launch Battle Over Reapportionment of Congressional Seats

Blacked-in states, potential losers. Shaded, potential gainers. Blank, no change contemplated.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(Central Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—The "battle of the States" is shaping up today in the House of Representatives in the wake of the 1950 Decennial Census.

Rumblings of protest are being heard from the states which are threatened with the loss of representation in the House. Powerful voices are being raised demanding that the representation not be changed.

Among the states which are threatened with the loss of one or more seats are three of the most populous in the nation — New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

Although all of them increased in population during the 1940-50 decade, they stand to lose members because their population gain is less than the national average gain. They don't like it—naturally.

At stake in the struggle which is developing is not only representation in the House, but also the number of presidential electoral votes and the number of delegates for national conventions. The last two are based on congressional representation.

Fireworks are expected to begin sometime after the November elections. Then the House judiciary subcommittee on reapportionment will convene under the chairmanship of Rep. William T. Byrne (D), New York.

Interestingly enough, three of the five subcommittee members represent states which may lose seats in the House.

Byrne said his state of New York apparently stands to lose three seats, and remarked: "There will be tremendous opposition to that in New York."

Byrne emphasized that New York's population gain in the past 10 years was 9.4 per cent, but less than the 14.3 per cent national average gain.

He complained, however, that while New York might lose three seats, Massachusetts, which gained 9.2 per cent, does not stand to lose any seats.

Byrne stated that his group will decide what action to take. Three steps are open:

1—To do nothing, in which event the changes in reapportionment go into effect automatically beginning with the 83rd Congress in January 1953.

2—Enact legislation retaining the present representation for another 10 years.

3—Increasing the membership of the House from 435 to around 450.

Byrne said the likeliest method of preventing a loss in membership would be to increase the size of the House, which has remained unchanged since 1912.

The states which stand to lose seats in the House have a powerful bloc of 180 votes.

The official reapportionment of seats will not be known until President Truman submits to the House next January during the first week of the new session the Census report on the number of seats to which each state will be entitled.

The rest is automatic unless Congress intervenes. In 15 days after receipt of the message, the clerk of the House informs each governor as to the number of representatives his state will be entitled to in the following Congress.

Thus, if Congress is to act, it will have to do so very shortly after it meets next January.

Rep. John E. Rankin (D), Mississippi, a powerful member of the southern bloc, says something will be done. Rankin's state is apparently slated to lose one member.

The Mississippian suggests that the number of aliens in each state be eliminated in computing representation in the House. This proposal is sure to meet powerful opposition from populous northern and western states.

It was Rankin who, as a member of the Census committee, searheaded the successful drive in 1920 to block any cuts in House seats.

In order to prevent any reductions, his committee reported a bill boosting the total membership to 460. The measure was rejected by four votes and nothing further was done.

As a result, from 1910 to 1933 there was no change in representation of the states.

According to tentative computations, a loss of 13 to 14 seats is indicated for some states, offset of course by a corresponding gain by other states.

States which may lose seats are: Pennsylvania and New York, 2 or 3 each; Oklahoma and Missouri, 1 or 2 each; and Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi, Georgia North Carolina and Tennessee, 1 each.

States which may gain seats are: California, 7 or 8; Florida, 1 or 2; and Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Texas, Washington and Oregon, 1 each.

Drought Hits Late Potatoes

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—The Pennsylvania crop of late potatoes was affected, especially southeast of the mountains, by the dry weather which prevailed throughout most of August, but good rains late in August relieved the situation in many localities, the State Department of Agriculture reports.

A September 1 Federal-State yield forecast of 200 bushels of potatoes per acre for 1950 is a new record high for Pennsylvania. During August the yield estimate advanced five bushels per acre which increased production by 475,000 bushels for a total crop of 19,000,000 bushels, slightly less than 1949 production and the average of 19,224,000 bushels for the 10-year period, 1939-48.

Officials pointed out that the 95,000 acres on which potatoes are being grown this year in Pennsylvania is the smallest acreage in approximately 85 years and was a reduction of eight per cent from the 1949 potato acreage.

Late blight of potatoes was widespread during August but was not serious, growers generally having sprayed their vines at regular intervals to prevent development and spread of disease.

Harvest of Katahdin potatoes was started by September 1 and yields were reported to be fair. Cobblers turned out well in both yield and quality. A month of favorable weather was needed for much of the late crop.

Failure To Send Children To School Causes Charges

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 21.—(INS)—Eleven more Amish parents posted bail Wednesday before Alderman William A. Hull on charges of failure to send their 14-year-old children to school.

This brought to 26 the total prosecutions made by three township truant officers this week against members of the sect for not complying with the state's compulsory school attendance law.

Eli Ebersol, of Upper Leacock township, paid a $2 fine and costs after pleading guilty to the charge. He is the only parent thus far to pay the fine rather than post bail for a hearing.

The action of the parents is part of a state-wide move to keep their children from school after the age of 14 because it is against the tenets of their faith.

One Amishman in Mifflin county has already served a five-day jail sentence on the charge and six others face prosecution.

The State Department of Public Instruction announced it is depending on local school district officers to enforce the law.

Personal
To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

"CURIOSITY KILLED THE CAT"

"Curiosity killed the cat." How common a saying this is! And yet how stupid! For don't we usually use it to discourage a child's exploration of the thousand and one things that interest him?

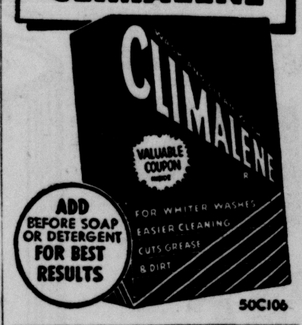

It's a little short of a tragedy that the normally curious child, filled with questions and eager to learn, is so soon compelled to become a reluctant learner. And, strangely enough, it is the child's parents and teachers that are largely responsible.

We get impatient with their questions and, furthermore, when we're asked things we don't know the answers to, we say, "Don't bother me. Run along and play with the others kids." When a child is curious about things we think he is too young to know, we say "Curiosity killed the cat" or some similar comment. In many schools, too, children are supposed to ask no questions but merely do what is set before them.

The greatest assets to learning are curiosity and the desire for knowledge. At home and at school, it is most important for us to encourage this curiosity, and to try to help youngsters develop and broaden their knowledge.

Big Changes In State Funds

Salary Increases And Increases In State Relief Grants

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Within four days, the commonwealth announced salary increases for state workers, increases in relief grants and savings in public assistance involving more than $22,000,000.

The department of public assistance started the ball rolling with announcement of increased food and shelter maintenance grants costing about $2,580,000 a year.

Then DPA followed it up with an estimate that in the neighborhood of $10,860,000 a year will be saved via increased Federal Social Security payments which will reduce the commonwealth's contributions to those persons whose pensions equal or exceed what they had received from the state.

Governor Duff then announced salary boost for those earning less than $3,000 a year at a cost of $9,000,000.

The DPA expects the savings via the state's reduced old age assistance contributions to run around $7,000,000 in initial stages and then ultimately rise to the $10,860,000 figures sometime next year.

With the revision of relief expenditures, the DPA probably will end the biennium next May with a cash balance.

State employees figured last month they were due for salary increases not only because 1950 has seen increases in the cost of living but because it also is a major campaign year.

Pay boosts were granted in August, 1946, when Pennsylvania elected a governor and in August, 1948, when the state participated in a presidential election.

Other salary revisions back through the years usually were made in the summer.

The state game commission has reported that during the last fiscal year, its employees reclaimed 1770 acres in timbered areas for food strips. Added to food strips the under cultivation, the total rose to 2670 acres. Approximately 9600 bushels of grain were harvested and distributed for game feeding. The food raising program has the cooperation of farmers.

The Pennsylvania State Nurses' Association plans to campaign for legislation when the General Assembly meets in January requiring "all who practice professional nursing to be licensed." The association is considering a model bill which would make original license fees $10. Annual renewals would cost $1. Since 1909, the association points out, Pennsylvania has had permissive registration for professional nurses. Thus, graduates of approved schools may take state board examinations and, if they pass, are listed with the health department as registered nurses and may use the covetted symbol "R.N."

The association emphasizes, however, that "anyone may perform any and all of the duties expected of a registered nurse without registration as long as she does not represent herself to be a registered nurse." Pennsylvania's nursing law has had no major revision since 1935. The model law under consideration provides safeguards against "fraudulent practitioners" plus penalties and sets certain standards.

The Pennsylvania newspaper publishers' association has invited the major candidates of both Republican and Democratic parties to attend a session of the annual convention opening for two days at Harrisburg October 6. PNPA President Ted Serrill hopes to have Governor Duff, GOP candidate for the U. S. Senate, and his gubernatorial running mate, John S. Fine, and Democrat U. S. Sen. Francis J. Myers, candidate for a second term, and his ticket partner, gubernatorial hopeful Richardson Dilworth.

George Bernard Shaw Has Second Operation

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The British Press Association said that playwright George Bernard Shaw, hospitalized with a broken thigh bone, underwent a second operation today to relieve a bladder and kidney condition.

Shaw injured himself Sept. 10 in a fall in the garden of his home.

The 94-year-old dramatist was taken the next day to a hospital in Luton where he underwent an operation.

A few days later, after making remarkable progress, Shaw suffered complications from an old kidney ailment and specialists were called in.

There had been no previous hint that Shaw would have to undergo further surgery.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—The first two veterans of the famed 442nd Regimental Combat Team, composed solely of Japanese-American soldiers, have arrived at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to begin work in "Go For Broke," based on the exploits that won them more decorations than any other unit in World War II.

The two are Lt. George Miki and John T. Uchijima, both of Honolulu, who were awarded the Bronze Star, Purple Heart, and Combat Infantryman's Badge for front line action in Italy.

Pidgin-English

The two men brought with them the regimental colors of the regiment. Governor Ingram M. Stainback of the territory of Hawaii granted special permission for the colors to leave the island for the film.

"Go For Broke" is pidgin-English for "shoot the works" and it was a familiar cry during the bloody engagements that raged in the battle for Italy.

The battle record of the combat unit was the most spectacular of the war. The Niseis won more than 5000 individual awards and 650 of its Purple Heart decorations were presented to the next of kin.

Miki and Uchijima, both now in the reserve, form the vanguard of other Nisei veterans from both Hawaii and California who will appear in the movie. Major Thomas W. Akins, U. S. Army, and Mike Masaoka, also veterans of the 442nd, will serve as technical advisers on the film.

Production will get underway early next month and the movie will be one of the studio's biggest on its 1951 schedule.

Bashful Cowboy

RKO-radio studios think that it is about time that Hollywood depicted cowboys as they really are. In this picture, with its rodeo background, Mitchum will play a bashful cowhand who has a hard time winning the girl, engages in no fights with the villain and does not fire a gun once.

At least, that is Hollywood's idea of a bonafide cowboy.

This And That

Short takes: Marlene Dietrich is considering playing a one-legged lady in a picture planned by Billy Wilder for shooting in Germany. Plot of the picture deals with the trials and tribulations of Dietrich in getting an artificial leg in post-war Germany . . . Frances Langford and her mate, Jon Hall, have made Florida their official home. They have bought a large ranch near Palm Beach . . . Danielle Darrieux, the sultry French charmer, has been signed to play Jane Powell's mama in "Welcome To Paris." . . . Marlon Brando bought 1600 head of cattle for his Texas ranch, near San Antonio, with early checks from his percentage of "The Men." . . . Victor Mature will be out of commission for at least three months. The leg that he injured in a motorcycle accident at Billings, Mont., will b in a cast that long.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(INS)—State Welfare Secretary William C. Brown announced today that Dr. William J. Schilling of Warren has been appointed superintendent of Torrance state hospital.

New Purchasing Agents' Group Is Affiliated

Local Organization Becomes Part Of National Association

One of the district's newest organizations, composed of professional men, the Purchasing Agents Association of New Castle, became a part of the parent organization, the National Association of Purchasing Agents, last evening, when it was formally accepted as an affiliate at a dinner meeting held in The Castleton. Guests were present from six states and the principal address of the evening was given by Carl F. Jones, of Wilmington, Del., president of the National Association.

Strizzi Presides

E. Frank Strizzi, president of the New Castle Association presided and introduced H. C. Ketchum, director of the association, who presented the guests. They included Tom E. Hudson, former vice president of District 6; Morry Carlisle, president of the Pittsburgh Association; George Porter, president of the Cleveland Association; Roy Mills, president of the Youngstown Association; Joseph Silvernail, director of the Buffalo Association; John Lawler, of the Huntington, W. Va., Association; Jack Evans, president of the Akron Association, and Jerry O'Mara, of the Springfield, O., Association.

Greetings were also brought by many of the heads of industry in the local district, who were special guests on the occasion.

Mr. Strizzi then presented Bruce Henderson, vice president of the 6th District as the toastmaster, who presented the speaker.

Group Of Specialists

Mr. Jones officially welcomed the group into the national organization, which he pointed out that though while not large in point of membership, being comprised of but 12,500 members, yet it represented 85 such associations, throughout the United States and Canada and the bulk of the nation's business endeavor.

Purchasing agents, he pointed out, are becoming a specialized group. To them is delegated the important task of procuring materials of the right quality, at the right time, and at the right price. His work brings him in contact with every segment of business, and his relations with the public spell success or failure for the industry he represents.

The theme of his talk was "fifth wheels or fly wheels," in which he pointed out one could be a fly wheel, the spark plug of his organization, or merely a fifth wheel, a sort of substitute only used when everything else failed. He outlined guide posts for members to make them the key representatives they should be. These he stated include loyalty to one's company, justice in dealing with others, and faith in one's profession.

In conclusion, he pointed out the tremendous inefficiency and waste in our national government, which he stated was due to the fact that a majority of the people of the country fail to exercise their right of franchise. We are not entitled to any better governmen than that which the people elect.

Mr. Henderson in concluding the meeting called attention to the Sixth District Conference, which will be held at Columbus, O., on October 27 and 28, for the benefit of those who were unable to attend the National meeting during the summer.

President Strizzi also announced that the local association has procured 500 tickets for the Notre Dame-Navy football game in Cleveland, on November 4, which will be available as long as they last.

Girl Scout Council Is Hostess At Party

Folk-dancing, games and refreshments were highlights of the "hoe-down" party given by the Girl Scout council for Girl Scout leaders Tuesday evening at North Beaver grange hall.

Festivities opened with get-acquainted games and dances, led by Mrs. D. B. Forsyth, Girl Scout executive director. A tasty lunch was served later.

The committee of arrangements follows: Miss Mildred Lusk, Mrs. C. M. Booher and Mrs. Samuel Rashid, who were capably aided by Mrs. N. J. McCluskey and Miss Maxine Bigley.

Miss Emily Rice, commissioner, announced the regional conference to take place in Pittsburgh October 8-10. As many as possible are to attend some time during the three-day period.

Mrs. Rashid explained that the calendars for 1951 should arrive here any day, and that all troops should place their orders in the Girl Scout office immediately. As there is a shortage of calendars each year, the demand being greater than the supply, those getting their orders in first will be the ones to receive the number they need.

Packaged Goods Labels Must Carry Word "Net' On Them

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The state justice department ruled today that labels on packaged goods must carry the word "net' in declarations of weight and quality.

"If the word 'net' is omitted... confusion would arise in the mind of the buyers as to the actual volume of weight of the commodity in the package and give rise to possibilities for fraud," said an opinion written by Deputy Attorney General Raymond C. Miller.

The ruling was returned to State Internal Affairs Secretary William S. Livengood, Jr., after several manufacturers objected to using the word "net" in weight declarations.

"This led to confusion among buyers of items like expensive perfume," Miller explained, "where the bottle might weigh more than the goods inside.'

GETS 30 DAYS

McKEESPORT, Pa., Sept. 21.—(INS)—For calling out two fire companies to put out a fire in the seat of his pants, Chester Kevana 39, was sitting out a 30-day jail sentence.

In some unknown manner, Kevana's pants caught fire while he was standing on a busy downtown McKeesport street corner.

He pulled a fire alarm box that brought out the two fire companies and also tied up traffic.

Ten Thousand Hear Conversation

The caller wanted to know whether the Dickinsons liked their new telephone, how much the dairy cattle were worth and how things were on the farm.

The caller also deplored the days of the old party line telephones when you couldn't hear because everybody else wanted to listen in. There wasn't much privacy between the caller and the Dickinsons. In fact, 10,000 eavesdroppers had gathered to hear the entire conversation. But that didn't faze the caller.

It was Harry S. Truman at the White House in Washington and he wanted to help the Dickinsons celebrate the installation of their telephone — the first placement under the rural electrification administration's loan program.

Conference Is Held On New Zoning Plan

Last night, representatives of the Zoning Consulting service, University of Pennsylvania, with council, surveyed the proposed new zoning regulations, and continued the discussion in city hall today with representatives of the GNCA, Zoning board, Realty board and council.

The purpose of the discussions was to learn what changes the various organizations and council favor before a final draft of the proposed Zoning ordinance is presented for public hearing in about six weeks, then presentation to council for final action.

Last night's meeting in city hall concerned various proposed regulations and how they fit each district. Very few changes were suggested.

Three Residential Districts

There are three residential districts in the new draft, A, B and C. A permits single family houses which can be converted only with permission; B would permit all kinds of dwellings except row-houses and C would allow residential, apartment houses, hotels and parking lots.

There are local and main districts in the Commercial district and light and heavy Industrial districts.

Discussion this morning concerned houses and porches and the property line, garages to the rear of a house, and to be built three feet distant from others' property line, and all future houses would provide for off-the-street parking.

E. Gene Schweinsberg, city councilman, is chairman of the council's committee relative to zoning.

Lawyers Urge Ban Of Lie Detectors

LONDON. — (INS) — Lawyers from 38 nations at the International Bar Conference urged every country to ban the use of truth drugs and lie detectors in court cases.

Experts attending the London conference revealed that:

People injected with truth drugs often tell lies:

A confession under a drug may be just fantasy.

A drugged criminal who does not confess may still be guilty.

Judge Louis Goldstein, of New York, declared that it was a step backwards to permit such methods of obtaining information.

A paper by another American, Edward Van Saher, state:

"The present importance of the truth serum has been overestimated. It cannot make a man confess."

Saher also disclosed that during the last war an officer, by Army permission, was questioned about military secrets while under the drug. He did not reveal them.

Gordon Rogers, for the English Bar, declared: "We oppose this sort of thing root and branch.

"Under the British Constitution men are free and equal before the law. Therefore only those restraints and constraints should be put on a man which are necessary to ensure his attendance at his trial."

Beats New Mexico Iron-Steel Drum

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(INS)—A New Mexico university geology professor in Albuquerque believes that New Mexico may one day be one of the leading western producers of iron and steel.

Dr. Vincent C. Kelle of the university faculty pointed out that it is not known generally that New Mexico has produced iron ore every year for the past 60 years with the exception of four years from 1932 to 1935.

Until 1945, he said, the state ranked third among western states in producing iron ore, and even today there are "at least 142 million tons of ore remaining in its mineral reserves."

He emphasized that distances are more favorable from Albuquerque to iron deposits, and coal for the blast furnace is handy, too.

He urged public development of a blast furnace in the Land of Enchantment which would help exploit neglected iron reserves, and save money in processing costs and also said an associated steel fabricating plant would save shipping charges on steel products imported from the east.

He said: "If public supported until markets were developed and secured, a New Mexico iron industry would expand and would be successful."

Marines Battle Way Into Seoul From Two Sides

This army column smashed across Seoul's main rail-highway artery from the south and captured the village of Osan, just above Anyang. The latter is nine miles south of Seoul.

Cutting of this vital rail section of Korea's chief communications line running northwest from Pusan through Seoul deprived the communists of their main avenue for movement of reinforcements to the capital from the enemy's crumbling southern sectors.

Col. Murray's marines already had snapped one of the principal rail-highway routes leading into Seoul from North Korea along the northeast side of the 750-foot-wide Han.

A front dispatch reported at 6:42 Thursday evening (5:42 a. m. EDT) that the marines thrusting into Seoul's outlying streets northeast of the Han were "moving so fast they are running out of supplies."

To Drop Supplies

Nine huge C-54 transports took off Thursday afternoon from an airfield in Japan, loaded with food, water and ammunition to be air-dropped to the leathernecks plunging into the centuries-old Korean national capital from the north.

An American officer in the Han sector said an all-out assault on North Korean trops in the heart of Seoul may begin momentarily.

Allied land, air and naval forces simultaneously struck to cut off the embattled capital from communist reinforcement columns reported moving toward Seoul from the north and south.

One Red mystery column of 40 tanks and 200 vehicles was reported coming down from a North Korean area near the Manchurian border, but details regarding this movement were lacking.

The southern prong of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's massive amphibious offensive from the six-day-old Inchon beachhead was nearing the vital railroad and highway leading south from Seoul.

This column, consisting of U. S. army seventh division troops, had one ridge to cross Wednesday evening before reaching the Seoul-Suwon highway, ten miles below the Inchon-Seoul road. The important junction of Suwon lies 18 miles south of Seoul.

These Red onslaughts, the announcement stated, were "supported by heavy artillery fire and were launched in an apparent effort to prevent UN forces from cutting North Korean communications."

Both counter-attacks were repulsed, the bulletin added. It listed 300 Reds killed, 200 taken prisoner and four tanks as well as three anti-aircraft guns destroyed.

The communique recorded 1,996 troops as lost by the North Korean invaders Wednesday in both northern and southern sectors. These included 1,875 killed or wounded and 121 captured.

An initial stab into Seoul, a city normally populated by some one million persons, was made during Wednesday night by tank-led U. S. first marine division troops which had crossed the Han river early Wednesday.

These leathernecks smashed into the capital's northern limits after an eight-mile advance down the Han's northeast bank from their crossing point at Haengju.

Eagles Auxiliary Plans Gala Dance

The Ladies Auxiliary to New Castle Aerie No. 455, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held their regular meeting, with vice president, Ruby Thompson presiding.

Preceding the meeting a sumptuous tureen dinner was served, and an ambundance of fine foods was enjoyed by a large group of auxiliary members, their husbands and families.

Following the dinner a short business meeting was held, and it was decided the auxiliary will join the aerie in the gala Harvest Moon dance to be held in October.

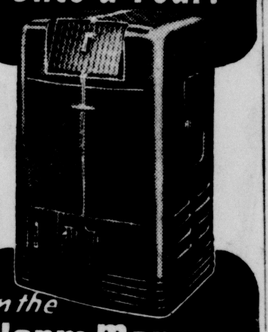

At the close of the meeting the "Honorary Mother" of the year, Mrs. Henrietta Davis, was presented with a lovely birthday gift from the members.

A social period followed with chairlady Mrs. Pearl White in charge, and her aides were Mrs. Mary Vitulla, Mrs. Mary Mariacher, Mrs. Helen DeFonso, Mrs. Adaline Navarra, Mrs. Georgia Hurst, Mrs. Pearl Jenkins, Mrs. Betty Semler, Mrs. Rose DiLullo, Mrs. Cassie Morrow, Mrs. Nettie Stamos, Mrs. Henrietta Davis and Mrs. Elsie Pugh.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Olive Key. The bowlers will play on Thursday at 9:00 p.m.

Mrs. Ruby Thompson, chairlady for October, will outline her plans at the officers and chairladies meeting following initiatory and drill practice Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 8:00 p.m.

KEEP KEROSENE RANGE CLEAN FOR BEST SERVICE

For best results from your kerosene range, keep it clean and properly adjusted. Food spilled or dropped on any part of the kerosene range should be wiped up at once, or as soon as the enamel has cooled. A wet cloth on warm or hot enamel will cause it to crack.

Wipe the mica used as windows in the range with a cloth moistened with vinegar. Where paint has worn off, rub the spots with oil to prevent rusting. Do this regularly, but especially when the range will be in storage. You might rub all metal parts with oil as an added precaution against rusting.

Clean feed line and wicks are essential for good service from your range. Always use a good grade of kerosene and you will reduce the number of times necessary to clean the feed line. When the pipeline becomes clogged, wicks won't get enough oil and the flame will sputter or even go out. The oil drained from the clogged pipline will have dirt in it so don't pour it back into the tank.

A properly adjusted and clean kerosene range that stands perfectly level in a well-ventilated room, but not in drafts, will give excellent service.

CHILDREN ARE PEOPLE; TREAT WITH RESPECT

Good parents see children as people—people with feelings, people on their way to somewhere, people to be treated with respect. A child is a person, and what he needs most as a person is a human relationship, emphasizes Miss Marguerite Little, home economics extension specialist in Child Care.

Respect for a child's individuality does not mean excessive awe; it means acting with sincerity and honesty of feeling. It means taking into account what the other fellow is doing and saying. It means thinking well enough of the other person to be willing to assume that he is able to fit into a picture in which other persons also have rights and feelings.

Having respect is not always a serious business, she points out. Respect means laughing with children, having jokes, seeing the fun in what they think is funny. It means accepting life at times on their level.

This is hard to do. One of the most hilarious things a three-year-old knows is to fall on the floor with a bang. It takes a good parent who can laugh with the child time and time again at this kind of humor. Most good parents, however, see that falling is funny to the child and try to hold themselves back from putting on a damper for this fun.

As children grow older they enjoy activities which adults can more easily appreciate and enter into. Such activities as ball games, museum visits, collecting stamps, can be fun for grown-ups as well as for the child. Picnics, camping out, and campfires in the back yard with marshmallows to roast, are all excellent opportunities for mutual give-and-take.

Complete surgical removal is the proper answer to the adenoid problem.

Soda Dispensing Tote Bar Appears

DENVER. — (INS)—The handy portable Tote Bar — a soft drink dispensing system, weighing less than 35 pounds—is now making its appearance at entertainment centers throughout the country.

Vendors carry the dispensor on their backs by using shoulder straps, fizz out a soft drink in a paper cup for customers in a jiffy and meander on their profitable way without fuss, muss or bottles.

The Tote Bar has a 50-drink capacity and is refilled from a central cabinet cooler located elsewhere in the stadium or auditorium.

Charpiat, Nathan Kobey, owner of the Wichita Indians of the Western league baseball club, and James Gooding, president of the Pepsi-Cola Co. of Denver, formed the Charpiat Corp., and negotiated with the Pepsi-Cola Co. of New York for sale of the Tote Bar.

The Pepsi-Cola Co. bought the bar, but insisted that its manufacture be moved to an eastern factory. The incorporators refused, and after much discussion, it was agreed that Tote Bars would be made in Colorado's Capital City.

Lazy Fishermen Called 'Unreel'

COLUMBUS, O. — (INS)—Real fishermen are not lazy.

At least, so maintains a recent issue of the Ohio Conservation Bulletin, official magazine of the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

The Bulletin conducted a survey among Ohio fishermen to arrive at its conclusion. It finally classified fishermen into two groups—the genuine fisherman and the angler who "just fishes."

According to the Bulletin, the genuine fisherman claims that it is impossible to catch fish unless you fish hard, regardless of the hour, the weather, or even the season.

However, the Bulletin stated that the angler who waits for the nice day, gets plenty of sleep, picks the softest tuft on the creek bank, sets his line and just waits is generally considered lazy and an outcast by the simonpure fisherman.

The Bulletin did not estimate the number of Ohio "outcasts," but indicated there number is considerable.

Retired Dentist A 'Knifepainter'

HASTINGS, Neb. — (INS)—Dr. C. C. Keith, a retired Hastings dentist, vowed when he was a young man that he would never allow time to be wasted in his later life.

With an ordinary jacknife and thin pieces of wood he is keeping that pledge by "painting" landscape scenes.

The first picture, an ancient castle, surrounded by trees and shrubs, has an area of only six by twelve inches—yet it required 800 small pieces of wood and six months time to complete. It contains 100 different kinds of natural woods.

The vivid color of the woods and their careful matching are first considered by Keith, who then glues the cut pieces of burl in their proper place. The picture then is sanded and shellacked.

He takes an occasional breathing spell by working in his garden.

Flag Pretender Start Stampede

(By International News Service)

PARIS.—The impending return of Henri of Orleans, recognized pretender to the non-existant French throne has stimulated at least one Paris weekly to publish an "authoritative" list of 20 other pretenders including one U. S. resident.

The weekly divided them into two classes: those who might be recognized as legitimate pretenders and press their claims; and those who haves no real basis for their claims but make them anyway.

The resident of the U. S. is cited in the second group. He is Louis-Phillipe Brousseau, now reportedly a 73-year-old hatter in Chicago who claims to be the Duke of Navarre, a Bourbon prince and the great-grandson of Louis XVII.

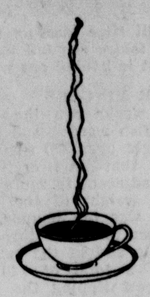

Another pretender is Charles Nicholas, a Rhodesian architect whose titles to the crown, according to the French weekly, are a hernia and hemophilia, the latter being the hereditary disease of the Spanish Bourbons.

Among the other more colorful pretenders is Leon Michel, alias Leon Millet or the "White Cavalier" who has made a vow of celibacy until the "coming of the Great King foretold by the prophets," and the Lion of Judas, 67, whose name is said to be C. de Gimel. He publishes a paper in Nantes, France, called "The Lion." His symbol is reportedly a flag covered with 88 fleurs-de-lys.

Gen. Bradley Sees U. N. As World Power

DETROIT, Sept. 21. — (INS) — General Omar N. Bradley declared Wednesday that the fighting in Korea has transformed the United Nations into "a world power—a power for freedom potentially stronger than any single nation."

Bradley said that although the UN has not yet established a world police force, the effect of such a force has been achieved "in a common effort to enforce peace."

The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff told the Detroit Rotary club that a "miracle of arms" has been accomplished in Korea. He said:

Had Big Start

"It is the first time in history as far as I know that any nation has made a successful piecemeal commitment of its armed forces in the face of a moving, hard-striking enemy—and won the initial decision.

"The armed forces of the United Nations were able to hold 1,250 square miles of beachhead, turn the tide of battle, and take the offensive."

Bradley said "the aggressor started with an estimated 220,000 troops, and some air force," and that "the South Koreans had less than 60,000 trained men."

Although he said "we have lost our illusion that Communism is merely an imposing ideology" and recognize that it will resort to force, he held forth hope that world peace may yet be established. He said:

"Perhaps we have successfully stopped a whole planned series of aggressive acts."

Special Police Guard For Bride Going To Altar

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—(INS)—A pretty 18-year-old bride-to-be—terrorized for months by a mysterious "whistler" who promised to kill her—will have a special police guard at her wedding if the man is not caught.

The girl, Jacquelyn Cadow, is engaged to marry state trooper Herbert Belsom, of New Orleans. She and her family arrived in New Orleans from their home in Paradis, La., to await the marriage under police protection.

Jacquelyn and her mother said "the whistler" first appeared at the Cadow home last February. He whistled tunes and made wolf calls but disappeared when police were called.

"The whistler" since then made many calls at the home and always eluded police traps. He even broke into the house one night.

When Jacquelyn's engagement to trooper Belsom was announced, he phoned the Cadow's and said: "Your daughter will never marry Herbert. I'm going to kill her."

When the Cadows moved to New Orleans, "the whistler" followed them and has made two more musical calls. Lately, Mrs. Cadow says, he has been whistling a funeral march.

The family has no idea who the man can be.

Miss Cadow said there was some comfort in the thought a policeman will escort her to the altar.

OUTDOOR RAMBLES with N. R. CASILLO

Bill Klee locating turtle with a steel shod stick. The experienced feeler can tell by the sound when he has struck his quarry. Then it is hauled out with the bare hands.

BUTTER FINGERS

Two weeks ago the Crawford county fish warden and an assistant caught over 200 snapping turtles in that part of Hartstown swamp adjacent to route 18. The average weight of the succulent reptiles was ten pounds. A day later they corraled three in the Linesville end of the swamp that weighed a total of 120 pounds, the largest tipping the scales at an even 50.

Th capture of this immense quantity of soup stock reminded me of the gentle art of turtle feeling as practiced in these parts. When I first heard of this purely regional sport, and I use the term sport advisedly, I thought that those who participated simply didn't know any better.

Has 39 Pound Monster

Shortly after taking up residence Bill Klee drove over to my home to show me the 39-pound monster he had captured just above the water works in the Shenango. He came into my backyard where I chanced to be at the time, carelessly holding the brute by its tail while the fist-size head viciously struck at anything and everything within reach.

When the dauntless captor related that he had caught the reptile by feeling it with his hands, I was aghast.

"Y-you mean," I faltered, "that you caught that thing feeling for it under banks with your bare hands?"

"Sure," he calmly retorted, "except that I got him in a muskrat hole." Then, he went on to tell me about the ancient sport and of its many adherents living in the city.

Twenty-Pound Snapper

Coincidently, a couple of weeks later, Plumer Fobes, who lives down the street, hailed me down to his garage. There I found his brother-in-law, Joe Bartberger, baiting a 20-pound snapper with his fingers.

While squatting before the hissing snapper which had backed into a corner, Joe turned to me and asked, "Did you ever see this done?" With that he unhesitatingly jammed the crooked forefinger of his right hand into the open mouth.

"How're you going to get it out?" I asked after finding my voice.

"Easy," he replied as he pushed firmly forward and then quickly withdrawing the digit. It was unscathed.

Quite Hazardous

To my way of thinking turtle feeling is every bit as hazardous as alligator wrestling as practiced by the intrepid or foolish of the deep south and easily on a par with catfish noodling as indulged in by a few foolhardy souls living on the bottomlands of some of our southern rivers. Imagine diving down into the lair of a huge catfish under an overhanging creek bank and hauling it out with your bare hands!

On the other hand, give a thought to the methods pursued by our own turtle feelers. Can you think of anything more unpleasant than wading a muddy river and feeling for your quarry under banks, submerged roots or in the den entrances of muskrats. Hazards include quicksands, long forgotten but every-ready steel traps, resentful muskrats, water snakes of three different varieties and the quarry itself with jaws strong enough to lop off a finger. However, there are scores here in our fair city who consider it a top sport.

Bowles Urges Price Control

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Connecticut governor Chester Bowles, former OPA chief, urged President Truman to halt rising meat prices and apply immediate price-wage controls on 20 or 30 basic items.

Bowles declared after a conference with Mr. Truman that Chicago meat packers are "completely without conscience" and the government should freeze prices on meat to keep it "from running away with us."

The wartime OPA head also urged controls on lumber, building materials, steel, basic metals and petroleum products.

Bowles said that after "selective" curbs are established, plans should be made to blanket the entire economy with controls unless prices turn downward in the meantime.

He said prices, after a brief sag, have now started upward again. Bowles cited General Electric's price boost following its wage settlement with electrical workers.

Bowles emphasized that he was not speaking for Mr. Truman but described the President as deeply "worried" about price rises.

Nation's Fire Loss During August Totals $49,878,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Fires destroyed an estimated $49,878,000 in property in the United States during August, a decrease of .5 per cent from fire losses of $50,150,000, for the same month a year ago, it was announced today by W. E. Mallalieu, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The August total represented a seasonal decline of 5.9 per cent from the July figures. July's fire losses were $52,980,000.

This slight drop in losses scarcely affected the steadily rising trend in fire destruction for the year. Losses for the first eight months of 1950 were $469,975,000, or 4.7 per cent higher than the $448,549,000, estimated for the first eight months of 1949.

For the 12-month period ending August 31, 1950, the total estimated loss is $688,962,000, an increase of 2.4 per cent over losses of $672,685,000, for the 12 months ending August 31, 1949.

These reported losses under fire insurance policies include an allowance for uninsured and unreported losses.

Weather Factory Crops Are Gassed

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Uncontrollable smog may one day end all farming near industrial cities, according to results of a year of plant research.

The adverse effects of smog gasses on growing farm products were determined by tests in a $500,000, weather-factory, or "phytotron", in southern California. A complicated, highly sensitive control system in the phytotron, developed by engineers of the Brown instruments division of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company, makes it possible to control and duplicate weather conditions found anywhere in the world.

Research in the greenhouses and laboratories, conducted by California Institute of Technology scientists under controlled smog conditions, indicated that some of the gasses in smog were toxic to plants and visibly damaged them. Although the research did not uncover reasons for this action, the results were positive enough to make the growing of vegetables in smog-bound areas "economically impossible.

Air Force Band Hit In Europe

MUNICH—(INS)—The U. S. Air Force band which is giving concerts in five European countries is being acclaimed as the finest group of U. S. goodwill ambasadors to ever hit the continent.

Before the group returns to the U. S., they will have given 30 performances in 22 cities including a command performance for the King and Queen of England.

The concerts they gave in Berlin and Vienna were attended by nearly 80,000 persons, many of whom came from the Russian zones of the two cities.

On July 1st, they played to 30,000 Viennese. It is estimated that nearly half of the audience came from the Russian zone of Austria. Thousands had to be turned away because the stadium was packed. It was the same in Berlin on June 27th when 40,000 Berliners stood in the rain for hours to hear the band.

A photographer in Wiesbaden remarked: "This concert is the best thing the United States has ever given Germany because it is something we know and appreciate."

The 80 piece band was organized in 1942 and has since toured the United States, Canada, England, Scotland and France. The musicians include former members of 20 symphony orchestras and 16 name bands. The featured vocalist is Master Sergeant Glenn Darwin, formerly of Mark Warnow's band. The entire aggregation is heard each Sunday over the Mutual Broadcasting System on the "Air Force Hour."

BIRDS TAKE OVER

GULL LAKE, Mich. — Goddie Phillips will be minus a pair of trousers until a family of wrens decides to fly south for the winter. The birds built a nest in one of the pockets while the trousers were hanging in Phillips' yard.

Missing Youngsters Found Behind Drive-In Screen

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Three youngsters missing from their Pittsburgh homes for several days were found today encamped behind the screen of a drive-in theater.

The boys, Martin Cook, eight, and two brothers, Jim Hendricks, eight, and Don, 11, were discovered by the theater owner investigating the break-in of a refreshment stand.

The boys said they saw two older youths, accompanied by two older girls, raid the refreshment stand.

Diplomas Are Given Nurses

quate and at least, partially ineffective. No amount of scientific skill could atone for that lack.

The word "blessed" he stated, can also be translated as "happy." Yours is indeed a happy profession, he told the group, stating that he knew this to be true because God's promises do not fail and the promise is absolute. He said he also knew it to be true because one in visiting a hospital, sees that spirit of happiness in the faces of the women in white.

Gifts Presented

In conclusion he expressed the wish that the ministry of mercy upon which they were embarking bring both to the nurses and to those whom they would serve, a rich measure of the blessedness the Master promised.

The class was presented by Mrs. Bette C. Acker, assistant director of nursing; the diplomas were given by Dr. William J. Hinkson, president of the medical staff; and the pins by Miss Margaret Muth, director of nursing.

Mrs. R. K. Allen, organist of the First Christian church was accompanist during the evening, and played the processional and the recessional. Musical numbers were given by David W. Rees and Miss Betty Smith.

The Alumni award to the most outstanding student was presented to Miss Stella Rihel by Miss Anna Cifra, president of the Alumni Association. Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the church, in behalf of the class, presented flowers to Miss Muth, nursing director, and gifts to Mrs. Bette C. Acker, assistant director; Miss Marjorie Geesey, class advisor; and Miss Josephine Shupink, who was acting director of nurses when the class was enrolled.

Reception Follows

Dr. Galbreath and Dr. Bennett were also presented with gifts by the class for their interest in them, and their part in the exercises. These were made by Miss Muth.

Following the exercises, a reception was held at the Nurses' Home adjoining the hospital, and refreshments were served on the lawn of the home.

Those in the class were: Mollie Alansky, Sara Capps, Martha Cifra, Mary Lou Eakin, Barbara Hennon and Lea Nora Pierz, all of New Castle; Jane Book, of Slippery Rock; Jacqueline Burns, of Ellwood City; Maxine Carlson, of Midland; Shirley Gwin, of New Middletown, O.; Ruth Leonhardt and Dolores Marburger, of Ellwood City; Stella Rihel, of Harrisville, and Jean Runkle, of Fredonia, in the September class; and Betty Clark, of Rochester; Clydine Knox, of Sharon; and Anna McConaghy, of R. D. 7, Mahoningtown, of the February class.

Pulaski Plans For Homecoming Event

The Pulaski community will have its first homecoming in 28 years on September 28, 29 and 30. The Pulaski Lions club and Pulaski sportsmen's organization will sponsor the affair.

The three days of activities will include boxing and wrestling on the 28th, street dance and parade the 29th, and a tractor pulling contest and skating event on the 30th. Prizes will be awarded to winning contestants.

Pulaski was noted for its fairs years ago, and around half a century ago boat excursions used to travel from the community to Nancy's Island, an amusement park on the Shenango river.

The explosive industry had a lower number of accidents than any other United States industry in 1947.

Decrease In Fatalities On State Highways

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21—There were 49 fewer highway fatalities in Pennsylvania in the first six months of 1950 as compared with the same period of 1949, the Bureau of Highway Safety, State Department of Revenue, reported today.

In the first six months of 1950 there were 662 fatalities, comprising 391 rural and 271 urban, against 711 deaths in the same period of last year. The 1949 total included 422 rural and 289 urban fatalities.

The record for June, 1950, was far better than the same month of last year. This year the June fatalities were 78 rural and 32 urban for a total of 110 against 94 rural and 52 urban for a total of 146 for June, 1949.

Pedestrian fatalities in the first six months of this year totaled 235 against 321 for the same period of last year. This year's pedestrian deaths included 81 rural and 154 urban against 133 rural and 188 urban last year, an overall reduction of 86.

Pedestrian deaths in June, 1950, comprise 11 rural and 18 urban for a total of 29 against 18 rural and 30 urban for a total of 48 in the same month of 1949, a reduction of 19.

The bureau reported that Pennsylvania's record in highway fatalities is commendable because on a national basis traffic fatalities are rising. However, the bureau reminded operators and pedestrians that many of the fatalities could have been avoided.

All persons were warned to:—"Slow up—Look up—Live Longer."

Crop Development Delayed By Rain

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Pennsylvania crop development was delayed by rain last week, the State Agriculture Department announced today.

Farmers were handicapped in harvesting, seeding and plowing.

Operations according to the federal-state weather and crop survey for the week ended yesterday.

The spread of late blight on unsprayed potato fields was encouraged by wet and humid conditions, the department reported.

With late corn still needing two to three weeks to mature, the department said farmers are fearful that late corn will not mature sufficiently to escape damage if frosts come early.

Baby chick production in Pennsylvania for the first eight months of 1950 was four per cent above the comparable period in 1949, the department reported.

Production totaled 55,090,000 chicks this year, compared with 53,151,000 in 1949.

Demands for chicks of meat-producing varieties were strong last month, the department said, and the September hatch is expected to be well above production of a year ago.

Tree Markers Honor Pocono Honeymooners

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—Resort hotels and inns in the scenic Pocono Mountains of northeastern Pennsylvania are offering attractive programs for honeymoon couples, says Theodore Roosevelt, III, secretary of commerce.

One hotel issues all newlyweds visiting there a metal tag on which their names and wedding date are engraved. This plate is to be affixed to a real "Honeymoon Tree" which is indicated on the souvenir Honeymoon Trails map, also given to visiting honeymooners.

State Supreme Court Asked To Decide Communist Problem

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The State Supreme Court will be asked to decide legal problems invovlving a Communist leader and payment of a state probe when it meets in Pittsburgh Monday.

Attorney Hymen Schlesinger petitioned the court with a seven-page writ of habeas corpus in which he asked that bail for Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist party chairman, be reduced to $5,000.

Nelson has been held in Allegheny county jail under $50,000 bond. He has been accused of violating the state's 1939 sedition law by Common Pleas Court Judge Michael A. Musmanno.

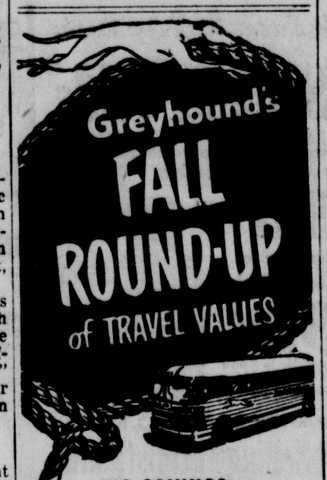

The query about payment for the current state investigation of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county administrative officials is being drawn up by Deputy State Attorney General W. Denning Stewart.

He wants the high state court to decide whether the state or county must bear the expense. Stewart claims corruption and graft prevail in the city and county.

S. S. Fels Left Estate Of Ten Million Dollars

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21—(INS)—Wealthy soap manufacture Samuel S. Fels, who reputedly gave away upwards of $40-million in his lifetime, left an estate of approximately $10-million.

This was disclosed yesterday when a check for $950,000 in state inheritance taxes was turned over by the Girard Trust Co., one of the executors, to register of wills Joseph D. Burke.

The sum represented the 10 per cent inheritance tax collected by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, less the discount allowed for payment within three months after death.

Fels, who died June 23 at the age of 90, willed the bulk of his estate to the Samuel S. Fels Foundation which he established in 1935 to carry on research in medicine and government.

YOUNG IMITATOR

CLEVELAND — Little Arlene Schunat will have to stay out of the back yard if she watches any more acrobats perform on television. The six-year-old youngster used to see the acrobats on the family's television screen and then rush to the monkey bar in the back yard and try to imitate the stunt. But, she fell off the bar and fractured her right wrist. Arlene said she is through with acrobats.

Elevators in the United States during 1949 carried 30 times as many passengers as were carried by railroads.

Farm Crops In Good Shape

Such Is Report Of Government

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(INS)—The government's next report on the condition of farm crops is expected to show most crops in continuing good shape.

The Agriculture department publishes its current survey of crops for September on the 29th. Observers believe weather and growing conditions generall will bear out earlier predictions of one of the best crop years in history.

Crops prospects look good in general. Cotton, however, will be short at about nine million, 882,000 bales.

Officials also are somewhat concerned about the corn crop. While the department's August crop report showed a big corn crop in harvest—and three billion, 168 million bushels—all may not be well when the harvest is in.

These officials say that lack of "corn weather" during August and into September will produce a large percentage of soft corn. with early frosts, which would pro- Many farm areas are now faced duce "soft" or chaffy corn.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated the 1950 tonnage of nine important truck crops for processing at 4.7 million tons.

A total crop that size would be somewhat lower than both last year and the 10-year average. Last year the nine crops amounted to 4.9 million tons and the average is 4.8 million.

The crops are: Sweet corn, tomatoes, snap beans, canning beets, cabbage for sauerkraut, green peas, pimentos, and spinach.

FIVE O'CLOCK CHURCH WEDDING

"Please advise me the proper dress for a woman to wear at a 5 p.m. church wedding. Should it be street-length or long? (2) What is proper to say to the bride and groom after the ceremony?"

Answer: (1) Wear your very best street-length dress. (2) Extend to them your best wishes and tell the bride how lovely she looks. Do not offer to her your congratulations. The groom, never the bride, should be congratulated.

Question: Kindly tell me whether the bride's father should dress in formal clothes at a home wedding at which the bridal party will dress formally.

Answer: The bride's father should dress formally.

Question: Would it be permissible for an older sister to act as hostess at a wedding reception when the bride's mother is unable to attend the wedding or reception because of illness? The bride's mother announced her daughter's engagement.

Answer: It would, indeed, be correct.

Question: I would like to know if it is proper to wear an evening dress to a very formal church wedding at 7:30 p.m. The reception immediately follows.

Answer: Indeed yes, it is perfectly proper. Of course, you should keep your wrap on and wear a scarf over your head if the church rules require women to cover their heads while in church.

Growing Trend Toward Socialism Strongly Assailed

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The 43rd annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Electric association yesterday heard "the growing trend toward socialism in government" assailed.

William B. McFall, president of the Commonwealth Trust company of Pittsburgh, warned the group that this country may some day fulfill Lenin's promise to spend itself into destruction, and faces ruin unless it operates on a pay-as-go basis.

As a solution he urged businessmen to take an active interest in elections and declared nobody has a right to complain about his government unless this is done.

Dr. Theodore A. Distler, president of Franklin and Marshall College, said that "door-to-door" missionary work is needed to head off Socialism.

Another speaker, James J. Nance, president of Hotpoint, Inc., stressed the responsibilities of the electric industry in the "present period of partial mobilization."

E. M. Elkin, general tax attorney for Westinghouse Electric Corporation, described the tax outlook as "extremely gloomy." He said Congress either is not able or willing to turn out a sound tax program right now.

Television Takes Family Interests

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Television is sounding the death knell to chummy get-togethers and family conversation in the American home. Dr. Edward C. McDonagh, associate professor of sociology at the University of Southern California, who recently completed a survey of a southern California community of 800 families, said that his results showed that video viewers are going to become "slaves" of their new entertainment media.

He found:

Television families are talking half as much as before they got their sets.

Ninety per cent are listening less to the radio.

Three-fourths are going to fewer movies.

Nearly half are attending fewer sports events.

All are doing less pleasure driving.

All are reading fewer books.

Soap was discovered by the Gauls about 77 A.D.

Optimists See Films On Little League

Members of the New Castle Optimist club saw films on the 1949 Little League World Series, held at Williamsport, at their dinner meeting in The Castleton hotel on Wednesday evening.

Clay Aubel showed the films.

Immediately following the regular meeting a directors meeting was held.

Optimists Bud Snyder and Don Rae are taking the four top boys in the club's marble tournament last spring to Cleveland Sunday afternoon to see the Detroit Tiger-Cleveland Indian baseball game.

This was part of the prizes awarded by the club at the tournament and scheduling the game was postponed until this late to see if the Indians might make the World Series.

The American Federation of Labor was founded in 1881.

New Castle, Shenango And Ellwood Play Home Games Friday

Bessemer And Union Play Away Games Over Weekend

All five Lawrence county high school football elevens play their third games of the season this weekend.

New Castle senior high school will be at home to John Adams of Cleveland Friday night at Taggart Stadium. Shenango opens its home season with Zelienople Friday afternoon, Ellwood entertains Rochester Friday night. Union travels to Evans City Friday night and Bessemer plays at Lowellville, O., Saturday night.

The Cleveland team uses the T-formation and according to reports from Steubenville, where it played last weekend, has a capable ball handler in Gerald Enzman.

Opposition, as a whole, however, is not expected to be as tough as was met in the first two games. John Adams bowed to a good Steubenveille team 37-8.

Shenango At Home

The Zelienople Golden Bear roars into Sherango town for a Friday afternoon game with the Wildcats. Experience, seven lettermen dot the lineup, and power, the Bears have scored 61 points in two games, mark the Zelienople attack The Bears are undefeated in two games this season.

Coach Nahas has indicated that he will make at least three lineup changes, because of last week's spotty performance against Leetsdale. The Wildcats will enter Friday's contest a decided underdog. Kickoff is at 2:00 p.m.

Union Has Toughie

Evans City, with nine of last year's starters back in harness, roared to a 38-6 win in its opener with Rimersburg and played to a 0-0 tie with a spunky Bessemer team last week.

Cementers After First

Bessemer will travel to Lowellville, O., Saturday, still looking for victory number one. The matinee game will give the Cementers an extra day's rest.

The cross state rivals use alternate formations, running both from the T and from the Notre Dame shift, over a balanced line. Lowellville coach Flauto has been guiding the Ohio team for three years, formerly coaching at Ursiline.

Lowellville opened its season by beating Youngstown East's junior team 33-13, and won last year from Bessemer 6-0.

Ellwood City meets a very offensive minded Rochester Ram, at Lincoln high field Friday, when the valley team moves into Ellwood for a night game.

Rochester has trampled Bessemer and Monaca, totalling seven touchdowns in the two games. Coach Mike Sebastian can call upon three breakaway backs in Owens, Pickens, and Miles.

Rochester returns seven lettermen, four of them varsit, linemen and will prove very stubborn up front.

WPIAL football action swings into high gear this weekend, with two New Castle high school opponents—Aliquippa and McKeesport—holding the spotlight.

These two undefeated teams meet Friday night at McKeesport. Other important games are Turtle Creek at Jeannette, Farrell at Vandergrift and Latrobe at Penn.

In class B Mars plays Mercer, Leetsdale meets Freedom and Hopewell plays at Moon township.

In non-league games Carrick plays Brentwood. In the Erie city series Erie Strong Vincent plays Erie Academy, both opponents of New Castle.

Titans Facing Rockets 'Jinx'

Hetzler Will Use Several Newcomers

If past records mean anything, Westminster college gridders will invade Slippery Rock Saturday with the odds stacked rather discouragingly against them.

The Titans have not defeated the Rockets in 15 years and in the past seven years have failed to score a single point against the Slippery Rock eleven.

The Rockets took a 21-0 decision from Westminster last year but both teams will field a comparatively new starting eleven this season. Faced with heavy losses of lettermen from last year's squad, both schools will be forced to get along with the services of seven or eight lettermen.

Many Newcomers

Coach Hetzler expects to use at least a half dozen newcomers extensively Saturday when the Titan eleven takes the field.

In contrast with last year's play, Westminster is expected to take to the air with more accuracy and consistency. A light, but fast backfield will likely take the field in the opening game.

Boldin-Andabaker Regain First Team

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Mike Boldin and Rudy Andabaker today were back in Pitt's first-string lineup for the Pathers' opening game against Duke at Durham, N. C., Saturday a week.

Left guard Boldin and right guard Andabaker were dropped to the second string squad a couple of weeks ago while the team was undergoing drills at Allegheny college.

Cleveland Indians Erase Red Sox As Threat To Pennant

Tigers-Yankees Playing See-Saw

Phillie Really Look Like Champs

By HOWARD SIGMAND
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—The Boston Red Sox headed out of the big, bad west today hounded by the awful truth. This was the fact they had been doing better when Ted Williams was not in the lineup.

Since terrible Theodore has been installed back in his regular left field berth the Sox have won three and lost four.

Williams went hitless and struck out three times yesterday as the Bosox bowed twice to the Cleveland Indians and fell into third place, two games off the pace.

Lemon Wins 21st

The Indians, who aren't going any place, apparently want company. Bob Lemon won his 21st of the season as he won the opener 6 to 3. And Early Wynn, the other half of the tribe's one-two pitching punch, won his 17th in the nightcap 7 to 1.

Lemon won his fifth over the Bosox this year by allowing seven hits and striking out nine. The righthander was aided by a two-run homer by Luke Easter, his 27th, and two run producing singles by Larry Doby.

Ford Wins Eighth

Ed Ford, 21-year-old prize rookie of the New York Yankees kept his team in first place, a half game ahead. The young lefthander set the Chicago White Sox down with three hits as the Yankees won 8 to 1. It was Ford's eighth win without a loss since joining the Bombers in July.

The Detroit Tigers had to come from behind to down the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 5.

Detroit now has sole possession of second place and can tie the Yankees by beating the A's today in the only scheduled American league game.

Washington outslugged St. Louis 12 to 7 in a night contest.

Phils Trim Cubs

Philadelphia took care of the Chicago Cubs, 9 to 6, as Jim Konstanty won his 16th game as a relief pitcher. Mike Goliat walloped two homers for the Whiz Kids and Andy Pafko connected for his 35th for the Bruins.

Young Cloyd Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals dumped the Boston Braves into a tie for second, 7½ games off the pace.

Dodgers Top Bucs

Brooklyn deadlocked Boston by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 7 to 2. Gil Hodges' 29th homer with the bases loaded in the first inning, paved the way for the victory. Ralph Kiner hit his 46th for the Bucs.

Ewell Blackwell and Ken Raffensbberger helped the Cincinnati Reds turn back the New York Giants twice.

Blackwell allowed four hits as the Reds won the opener 4 to 1 and Raffensberger gave up six hits in winning the nightcap 2 to 0.

New Castle Rifles Club Meets Friday

GENEVA RESERVES LOSE

BETHEL, Pa., Sept. 21.—(INS)—The Duquesne university freshman team today held a 25-0 victory over the Geneva college reserves.

The teams clashed in Bethel last night for the benefit of the Bethel-Snowden Kiwanis club's underprivileged children's fund.

HERE and THERE ... IN SPORTS LAND

WHAT NEW CASTLE HIGH NEEDS MOST is a player who can instill "fire" into his team-mates, according to what Assistant Grid Coach Bill Klee told Here & There following a meeting of the Quarterback club, at the Elks dining hall. "In years gone by, there always was someone who could say! Follow me; I'll carry you through!" This was one phase of Ne-Ca-Hi gridding that got results, the ex-Red and Black, and Geneva star stated. Two of the gridders, Dante De Falco and Wilbur Foht who were Quarterback club guests, said that their Tuesday practice showed a lot of "fire" and they intimated their teammates, and they would do much better against John Adams, tomorrow night. . . . Incidentally, Assistant Coach Klee sang the praise of Al Tate, tackle, at Illinois. He said he had little doubt but that Al would make All-American this year. In fact, he said that several mid-west football experts were eying Tate closely. . . . The 'QBC' in addition to thinking of football, thinks of their members. For instance, everyone at the banquet table Tuesday night, signed a "Get Well" card which was sent to Bernie Hanlon, now convalescing from an operation. Bernie never missed a meeting of the club and patronizes all sports. . . . Met Bob Latera, ex-fight manager recently and he told of his trip with Young Ketchell to Los Angeles. "I became well acquainted with Jim Jeffries. One day he came to the gym to watch me tutoring Ketchell. He saw me teach Ketchell a left hook, as I learned it from Jimmie Dunn. Jeffries turned to me and said: 'have seen enough. I know now, you know how to teach how to deliver a left hook." Latera says Big Jeff, he remarked was one of the nicest men he ever met in the fight game. His son, Bobby, now out of Shenango high, was a member of Shenango Varsiety eleven. . . . Tommy Leach of the JAC is smiling because of his Gals wrestling show September 29, looks like a money-maker. It has been months since Tommy staged an attraction which paid-off, which naturally caused furrows in his brow. . . . Bill Koontz, who likes his fishing circulated amongst the Elks QBC club, Tuesday night. . . . Joe O'Leary will lead the American Legion Junior ball team next year. He piloted them successfully during the past season.

Refuse To Take Any More Orders

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The Detroit Baseball Co. announced today it will not accept any further requests for world series seats in Briggs stadium in the event the Tigers cop the American league pennant.

Thirty-two Pennsylvania colleges will be in action in twenty football games this week as the 1950 season shifts into second gear.

Among the highlights are the following:

Gannon, undefeated and untied in 1949, begins its second year of intercollegiate competition, taking on Findlay of Ohio at Erie Thursday night. On the basis of the Black Knights' eight and zero record last year, the International News Service choice has to be Gannon.

Dukes vs. Villanova

Duquesne goes across the state to play Villanova at Philadelphia Saturday. The Dukes had to rally to tie St. Vincent 14 to 14 in the opener, so the Wildcats are selected to win. Villanova, which won eight out of nine a year ago, could be one of Pennsylvania's better teams.

Possibly the best offering of the week is the Fordham-Lafayette game at Easton, Saturday. The Rams are supposed to be on the way back after a long absence from the top rungs of the football ladder. On the basis of that theory, Fordham gets the nod, although the Leopards also may be improving from their two-out-of-eight record of last fall.

Delaware, which plays seven keystone state teams in an 8-game schedule, tangles with Lehigh at Bethlehem Saturday. The Engineers won six and lost three in '49, and since they still have halfback Dick Gabriel (the east's leading scorer), they are picked to triumph.

One of the top intra-state clashes matches St. Vincent and Geneva at Beaver Falls Saturday night. The Bearcats kept their unbeaten string intact with that tie with Duquesne Sunday and should edge the Covenanters, who opened with a 14 to 0 win over Rider of New Jersey.

And here are the INS selections on the other Pennsylvania contests:

Friday Night . . .

Albright vs. Temple at Philadelphia—The Owls (5 and 4 in '49) by a comfortable margin over Albright (2-6-1).

Penn Military (6-2-1) at West Chester (8-1-0)—West Chester.

Saturday . . .

Mansfield (1-5-1) at Bloomsberg (8-1-0)—the Huskies keep rolling.

Gettysburg (7-1-1) vs. Bucknell (6-2-0) at Lewisburg—the Bisons to average their 33 to 34 loss to the bullets in 1949.

California Teachers (7-1-0) at Edinboro (1-5-2)—the Vulcans, of course.

Clarion (6-2-0) at Cheyney—Clarion.

Franklin & Marshall (2-5-2) vs. Lebanon Valley (5-3-0) at Hershey's Chocolate Bowl—the Flying Dutchmen by a whisker.

Indiana Teachers (4-4-1) at Kutztown (8-1-0)—the home team.

Lock Haven (26 to 13 victor over St. Francis last week) at West Liberty, W. Va.—the West Virginians.

Mt. St. Mary's of Maryland at Shippensburg (1-6-1)—the Raiders get off on the right foot.

Westminster (2-5-1) at Slippery Rock (6-2-1)—the Rockets are too slippery.

St. Francis (0-1-0 this year) at Louisville, Ky., University—the Frankies make it two in a row on the wrong side of the ledger.

Cubs And Giants Tough For Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Take it from a man who ought to know—the fighting Phillies chief worries this season haven't been the Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves ro St. Louis Cardinals.

Whiz Kids' pilot Eddie Sawyer said today that the hustling Chicago Cubs and the hard-driving New York Giants have been the "biggest poison" for the Phils this year.

Sawyer declared that "those Cubs are just about the toughest club in the league for us to beat—yes, I guess the toughest are the Cubs and the Giants."

"Hitting makes the Cubs tough," Sawyer commented. "With New York, it's the pitching.

"When we beat either of them, we know we've been in a fight. That Cub team shouldn't be 'way down there in the standings."

Phils Are Swamped Today With Request For Tickets

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(INS)—The Phillies found themselves today with far too few for far too many — World Series tickets, that is.

Applications for series ducats snowed under a special 18-man processing crew, as the postman delivered more than 100,000 letters the first day the Phils accepted them.

Here's why thousands of red-hot whiz kids fans are bound to be disappointed in their dreams of watching their favorites in action in the annual baseball classic:

Owner Bob Carpenter has made 23,000 seats available to the public for each series' game at Shibe Park.

The first two games will be played in Philadelphia as will the sixth and seventh if necessary.

200,000 Requests

If the classic goes the limit of seven contests, a total of 92,000 fans will get tickets for Shibe Park inasmuch as Carpenter has decreed single game sales on a first come, first served basis.

With each applicant permitted to apply for but two pasteboards, the Phils already have requested for 200,000 tickets on hand.

That means some 154,000 fans will be disappointed if only two games of the series are played in Philadelphia; some 121,000 if three games are staged in the Quaker City, and about 98,000 if the series goes the limit.

The Phils' front office informed the fans—the lucky ones, that is—not to look for the much-sought after series ducats in their mail boxes until next week. The unlucky one will get back their credited checks or money orders—with regrets.

Phillies Need Six More Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Today's "magic number" in the Phillies' bid for the National League pennant is six.

A half-dozen more wins for the Whiz Kids in their 11 remaining games and the 1950 flag becomes theirs no matter what the Boston Braves or Brooklyn Dodgers do.

The Phils have won 88 games ad six more triumphs would boost that mark to 94.

Even if the Braves and Dodgers won all 14 remaining contests on their schedules neither club could attain 94 victories.

Sawyer Refuses To Be Optimistic

Phillies Manager Evades Series Query

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Manager Eddie Sawyer is taking nothing for granted today so far as the National league pennant is concerned, despite the Phillies' comfortable 7½-game lead with only 11 contests to play.

Workmen began resodding the Shibe park infield in preparation for the forthcoming world series and the process prompted a sports writer to ask Sawyer:

"I guess you want the infield in better condition for the series, don't you, Eddie?"

Snorted Sawyer:

"What series? You mean the Brooklyn series?"

The pannant-bound Whiz Kids end their home season this Saturday and Sunday against the Dodgers.

At No. 85 September Term, 1950, the City of New Castle by its Assistant Solicitor, Robert E. Jamison, Esq., has presented a petition to the Honorable Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Lawrence County, setting forth that the City is the owner of a certain tract of land in the Sixth Ward, described as follows:

Commencing at a point where the East line of lands presently owned by Leo O'Loughlin and Margaret L. O'Loughlin, his wife, which is Lot 156 on Section 40 of the City Survey, intersects the North line of the said park; and running thence South 55 degrees 20¼ minutes West 203.9 feet, more or less, to the East line of Schley Street; thence North 3 degrees 10¾ minutes West by the East line of Schley Street 57.54 feet, more or less, to the point of intersection of Schley Street with the South line of the land which was conveyed by the City of New Castle to Lewis E. Beeman, and which point is 66.28 feet South from the South line of West Washington Street; thence North 55 degrees 20¼ minutes East 92.65 feet, more or less, to the Southeast corner of the land formerly of Lewis E. Beeman, which corner is South 28 degrees 49 minutes West, a distance of 56.87 feet from the intersection of the East line of the said Beeman lot and the South line of West Washington Street; thence by the North line of the said Park and by the South line of lands of Harry W. Shoaf, et ux, A. W. Longacre and Leo B. O'Loughlin, et ux, North 86 degrees 49¼ minutes East 95.09 feet to the place of beginning.

The said Petition sets forth further that the property was purchased for park purposes, but that in the opinion of the Mayor and Council of the said City of New Castle, the said land is no longer needed for public or park purposes, and that Leo B. O'Loughlin and Margaret O'Loughlin, his wife, have offered to purchase the said land at private sale for $400.00, subject to the approval of the Court, as provided for by the Third Class City Code, as amended by the Act of 1947, May 1, P.L. 333, Section 1.

New York Stocks

Stock Market Is Irregular

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(INS)—Sharp fluctuations in a few issues highlighted an irregular stock market session today.

American Telephone, which had been hammered down 2⅝ points yesterday on annonucement of new financing, lost another point to 148¼.

On the strong side, Kern County Land jumped 2½ points to a new high at 59¾, and J. I. Case was up ¾ at 50¾. In the rails the volatile Nickelplate advanced 2 points to 140.

Mixed price tendencies were the rule among the pivotal industrial leaders. U. S. Steel was off ¼ at 38½, Chrysler off ¼ at 71. General Motors off ⅜ at 93⅜, Bethlehem Steel up ⅜ at 42⅜, DuPont up ⅛ at 80 and Allied Chemical off ½ at 58.

The more active rail issues churned around narrowly. Baltimore & Ohio was off ⅛ at 13¾. Chesapeake & Ohio was up ⅛ at 31⅜. Illinois Central was unchanged at 49⅝ and Pennsylvania was off ¼ at 19¼.

The bond market held narrowly in quiet trading.

Cotton featured commodities with a spurt of $1.70 a bale. Wheat and corn were about steady.

Registration Total 45,879

Route 18 Plans Shown Wednesday

While still under the totals of November, 1940, the registration for the election on November 7 are the highest since then. A. Lewis Conn, chief clerk to the permanent registration bureau, said today the total shown is 45,879. This is the number eligible to vote November 7, save those who have died, who will be out of the city or unable to get to the polls because of sickness.

Of the 45,879, 30,742 are Republicans, 14,741 are Democrats, 143 are Prohibitionists, 182 are No Party, 52 are Independent, six are Socialists and three are Progressives.

Divided as to sexes there are 24,807 men registered and 21,072 women.

SEE HIGHWAY PLANS

Engineers of the State Highway department visited the county commissioners Wednesday morning and went over the plans for route 18 from Homewood to New Castle.

Several radical changes of location are planned, particularly near Wampum, where the new highway will come across the hill instead of directly through the boro.

The plans are to be ready by November 15 and will probably be advertised for bid next spring.

New Castle Man Granted Patent On New Grab Hook

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 — On August 29, 1950, the United States Patent Office granted patent number 2,520,544 on a "Grab Hook" to Bernard H. Hook, New Castle, Pa.

This invention pertains to an improved grappling hook for clawing or gripping an object on the surface of a body of water and drawing it in. For example, devices of this kind may be employed for landing a large fish after it has been caught by a hook and line.

Basically, Mr. Hook's contrivance comprises a cylindrical, floating element that is designed to skim along the surface of the water upon which it is placed. It may be made of cork or any other light, buoyant non-absorbent material; and one of its hemispherical portions is chambered out to provide a series of properly spaced slots within which the individual hooks of the appliance are adapted to fit. It should be noted that these hooks are mounted on a rod that (1) is slidable within a bore in the other half of the spherical body and (2) contains an eye at its outer end to which a line is attached.

Mr. Hook's grappling member is set in its inoperative position by merely pushing inwardly on the aforementioned eye until the hooks are completely encased. In use, the operator merely pulls outwardly on the rod until the hook assembly is entirely out of the buoyant body, and then tosses or places the device upon the water, guiding it thereafter with the line that is attached to the eye.

It is claimed that the arrangement of this invention is simple, efficient and inexpensive. Moreover, as a particular feature, it permits the hooks to be latched in their enclosed setting and thus held therein against accidental displacement which might result in injury to the hands of the attendant by protruding sharp barbs.

The application for this patent, which consists of ten claims of originality, was filed on June 3, 1946.

Life Prisoner Ordered Released From State Prison

NORWAY, Me., Sept. 21.—(INS)—Francis M. Carroll, ex-deputy sheriff allegedly "railroaded" to prison for life 12 years ago for the murder of a South Paris physician, was ordered released from state prison at Thomaston.

Superior Court Judge Albert M. Beliveau granted a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Carroll, one of two men serving life sentences for the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield in 1927, killed with his wife.

Carroll was ordered released today.

The other man convicted of the slaying of the physician was Paul N. Dwyer, now 30, former boy friend of Carroll's daughter, Barbara, who was 17 at the time.

Dwyer was arrested while driving the Littlefield car in Arlington, N. J., after an alert policeman discovered the bodies of the doctor and his wife in the trunk of the automobile. Dwyer was returned to Maine, and midway during the trial pleaded guilty.

Later he implicated Carroll who was tried and convicted.

Interest in the case, re-roused last month when counsel for Carroll filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Rumford superfor court, reached a climax last week when an investigator and witness in the trial declared Carroll had been "railroaded."
